anesthetic. In the American hospital here, while physicians, internes and nurses looked on with admiration.

"Hurt! I'll say it did!" Dr. Scott said, when he had recovered from a fainting spell following the operation, and sat calmly smoking a cigar.
Mrs. Scott was hurt in an automobile accident. Her right leg was broken in five places and flesh was stripped from it. She refused to have a stranger operate. Skin grafting was decided on to avoid amputation.

DAFFODIL SIGNIFIES UNREQUITED LOVE

If your sweetheart sends you daffodils, his message is "I desire a return of affection." But beware of giving him daffodils unless you really do not love him, because they signify unrequited affection.

Called Golden Bowl

The Turks call the daffodil the golden bowl, and in China it is known as shin sin fa, which means water fairy flower. Homer refers to this flower as an emblem of deceitfulness, because, while it delights with its beauty, it was believed in ancient times that the odor produced stupor and sometimes death.
The daffodil also has its place in Greek mythology. Pluto, king of the infernal regions, one day saw Proserpina and immediately determined to marry her. He knew, however, that Ceres, goddess of agriculture, would never allow her daughter to accompany him to the underworld.

From Greek Daffodils

One day Proserpina was gathering flowers while her mother rested on the shores of a beautiful lake. Pluto, with the help of Venus, decided to entice Proserpina away. So the goddess of love caused lovely flowers to spring up just ahead of the girl. Pluto suddenly caught Proserpina and carried her off. Ceres did not hear the screams of her daughter because the heavy perfume of the daffodils, which Venus had caused to spring up, had dulled her senses.

AUTO OPERATORS LOSE LICENSES

(Special to The Sun)
STATE HOUSE, Boston, July 15.—Frank D. Greene of East Chelmsford, has been notified that his license to operate motor vehicles in this state has been revoked, and that he will not be permitted to drive any motor vehicle in the future.

This action was taken by Frank A. Goodwin, registrar of motor vehicles, after learning of Greene's conviction in the Lowell court June 22 on a charge of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicating liquor. He was sentenced to serve one month in the house of correction, but appealed. Unless the superior court should reverse the decision of the Lowell Justice, Greene will be permanently barred from Massachusetts highways. If he is freed in the superior court, it will then be discretionary with the registrar as to whether his license will be reinstated.

Convictions in the Lowell court have also had the effect of barring three other men from Massachusetts highways, one living in Waverley and the others in New Hampshire.

George H. O'Brien of Waverley was convicted June 22 on a charge of operating while under the influence of liquor; Gustaf A. Nylen of Concord, N. H., convicted June 22 on a charge of going away after knowingly causing injury to property, and John Karaglanis of Manchester, N. H., was convicted June 22 on a charge of operating a motor vehicle in such manner that the lives and safety of the public might be endangered.

IN SERIOUS CONDITION

Bertha Moskowsky, aged 5 years of 22 Daly street, who late yesterday afternoon fell from the piazza of her home and sustained what is believed to be a fracture of the skull, is in a serious condition at St. John's hospital, where little hope is being entertained for her recovery. Just how the accident occurred is not known, but it is believed the child climbed on the rail and lost her balance, falling to the ground several feet below. The ambulance removed her to the hospital and today an X-ray picture of her injuries will be taken.

RESOLUTE VS. SHAMROCK III

Sir Thomas Optimistic as Starting Hour of First Race Drew Near

Crews of Challenger and Defender Early Astir to Spread Canvas

Sir Thomas Lipton, making his fourth attempt to lift the bottomless pewter mug, emblem of sailing supremacy of the sea, cast his eye to weather and remarked: "If the wind will hold its present strength, I'll ask nothing better for my Irish challenger, the Shamrock IV is a fine boat and I hope to win."

A gentle rain fell in the night and with clearing weather an even whole sail breeze sprang up from the southwest that held true through the morning hours.

Weather sharp said the breeze would haul more into the west by noon, which would give the sloops a 15-mile head to windward down the Jersey coast and a run home.

There was a gentle swell to the sea and the red-hulled Ambrose channel light vessel, where the yachts were to make the start, swung lazily on her anchor chains. Not a cresting wave was to be seen.

Captain Burton had his crew up with the sun and before 6 o'clock a host of sailors was on its way from the tender Killarney to the challenger to remove sail covers and send head sails up with stops.

"My opinion is that the first hour of today's race will tell the story of the America's cup contest," said the Shamrock's skipper. "He will then know what each sloop can do."

Skipper Adams also had the Resolute's crew early astir and ready to make sails. Covers were removed from the defender's mainsail and headsails slowly edged their way up the stays.

"We should have no complaint to make of this weather," said Captain Adams, "and I believe Resolute will give a good account of herself." Then he added: "Sir Thomas' ship should make it interesting."

The day broke hot and humid. The sun burned off the off shore haze and poured its rays down upon the spectators who occupied collars of vantage on the highlands to witness the contest.

The breeze was still holding directly out of the southwest at 9 o'clock at 10 knots and lumberhooers off shore stood alone on the southward on the starboard tack, making good time which presaged a fast race for their lighter sisters, the cup yacht sloops.

Sailing conditions provided for a preparatory signal at 11:45, wind and weather permitting, and a warning signal 10 minutes later. The starting signal was set for 12 o'clock with a handicap time to be taken two minutes later.

The American cook on Sir Thomas' steam yacht Victoria was not dismayed by Shamrock's from Ireland stored in the hold of the challenger for good luck.

"That won't help any," he said as he wagered a five dollar bill with Sir Thomas' valet, who put up a pair of his employer's cast-off trousers.

Captain Burton planned to carry a smaller club topsail today and reduce the heavy handicap which the Shamrock carries in allowing the Resolute a time allowance of seven minutes and one second in a 30-mile race.

This smaller topsail is expected to reduce the Resolute's time allowance to 6 minutes and 46 seconds. Shamrock must not only beat the American defender boat for boat, but accumulate such a time advantage over a 30-mile course as to nullify the big allowance given the Resolute because of her smaller sail and spar measurements.

Shamrock was the first to get up her mainsail which flapped from side to side in the freshening breeze. It was a fine piece of cloth and seemed visibly larger than Resolute's mainsail, which was hoisted shortly after.

The defender kited her largest club topsail, while the Irish sloop also sent up a club topsail of large area. The two racers swung unwillingly at their mooring buoys, awaiting a tow to the starting line.

The wind dropped out as the morning advanced and came in fitful puffs from the southwest, about six knots in strength. Gray clouds came out from behind the Jersey headlands, screening the sun and giving a constant threat of rain. Offshore the haze shut in thick and curtailed the Ambrose light vessel from the shore observers.

Resolute, distaining a tow, broke out her headsails at 10:22 o'clock, cast off from her mooring buoy and headed away to the eastward for the starting line.

Shamrock followed her within less than a minute, breaking out her headsails and standing away toward the starting line, a half-mile or more astern of the American sloop. The wind was still light from the westward.

The race committee boat, the ocean tug Barrington, came up to the Ambrose lightship and took her position at the starting line at 10:15 o'clock. She was soon followed by a line of excursion craft, crowded with passengers, who lined the rails from stem to stern watching the two racing sloops as they slid easily through the water seaward in the light airs.

The ocean was as smooth as a mill pond. Here and there, large soft spots were observed, evidence of the fitful breeze that sometimes blew eight knots in strength and then fell away to an Irishman's hurricane which is up and down the mainmast.

Hunting for vagrant winds was apparently not to the like of Captain Burton for on the way to the lightship he took a tow while Resolute moved on under her own sail.

Resolute slipped easily through the water under the command of Captain Adams, a descendant and namesake of a former ambassador to Great Britain and himself now treasurer of Harvard university.

The excursion fleet clustered around the starting line like minnows around a bread crumb and set a smoke screen that would have been the envy of any conveyance.

The haze was so thick that spectators on shore could not see the light-

Gassed Soldier's Wonderful Letter

Webster, Mass., July 9, 1920.

I returned home recently after serving nearly five years with the British army during the World War. During this period I served in the Gallipoli, Egypt, France, Belgium, and No. 100. I had seventeen wounds and was gassed; and when I arrived home I was suffering from stomach trouble very badly which was caused by the gas. I tried everything I could think of, consulted physicians and a specialist, but no results. I happened to see an advertisement in the daily papers about Sister Mary's Compound and that their representative would be at Houghton & Dutton's store in Boston. I went there and saw the representative and he advised me to try Sister Mary's Compound, which I did. I cannot say that it has wholly cured me as I am only on the third bottle, but this I can say, that I certainly do feel much better; can eat lots of things that I had to previously refuse, and know that I will not take three more bottles of this wonderful compound before I am entirely better. Am coming along grand, and I owe it all to Sister Mary's Compound, and will certainly recommend it to those whom I know are suffering with stomach trouble.

ship and the sloops were lost to view within three miles of the starting line.

The breeze was scarcely strong enough to stir the flags on the racing craft. Resolute reached the start at 11:15 but Shamrock was nearly half an hour later.

Decision by the race committee on a course southwest by south would carry the yachts from Ambrose lightship to a turning point a couple miles off Ambrose Park. With the hoisting of the course signal, the mark boat Astor Morse, under the command of Captain Blinn, steamed away to set the turning mark—a white float carrying a red ball six feet above the water.

The yachts moved at fair speed in the mild airs as they jockeyed for positions behind the starting line. The two sloops stood in shore on the port tack, with Resolute to windward. They came about and stood up on the line. At 11:55 the warning signal was blown, and a white ball was hoisted, and promptly at 12 the starting signal was sounded.

Resolute had gained the best position and slipped across at 12:00:40 while Shamrock was so slow in coming to the line that the handicap whistle had been blown before she reached the line and her official time across the line was 12:01:38. This gave Resolute the lead in the first leg of the first race and the Shamrock had a bad start.

Forging ahead on the starboard tack, the yachts carried mainmasts, staysails, foresails and baby jib topsails. Three minutes after crossing the line Resolute tacked to port and headed toward the Jersey shore, while the challenger stood seaward on the starboard tack.

The advantage of the start lay distinctly with the American boat because of the faulty timing on the lightship craft which resulted in her crossing the line a few seconds before the starting signal.

Shamrock at 12:05 was apparently unable to catch Resolute. At 12:10 a rain squall drenched both yachts and nearly killed the breeze. Resolute pointed higher but Shamrock footed a trifle faster.

Mrs. Burton, wife of the Shamrock's skipper, the first woman ever seen on a cup yacht, had been designed to hold the time watch on the Shamrock. Whether she was on board to call the time of today's race was not known when the yachts started. The rain squall hid the yachts from sight from shore a few minutes after the start. As the rain ceased falling the light southwestern breeze brought in a milky fog bank which completely concealed the course.

CHALLENGER TOWERS OVER DEFENDER

excellent and they suit the Irish Ulster to a man.

Cost of Crews

It costs a small fortune to maintain yachting crews.

Sailors who formerly were paid $35 a month and $25 additional for board, now receive $100 per month with a ration allowance of $45. The Resolute's expense for her crew is estimated at $25,000. The Shamrock's sailors will cost even more.

The men are given extra prize moneys and bonuses for racing, which will add further to the upkeep of the enterprise.

New Suits High

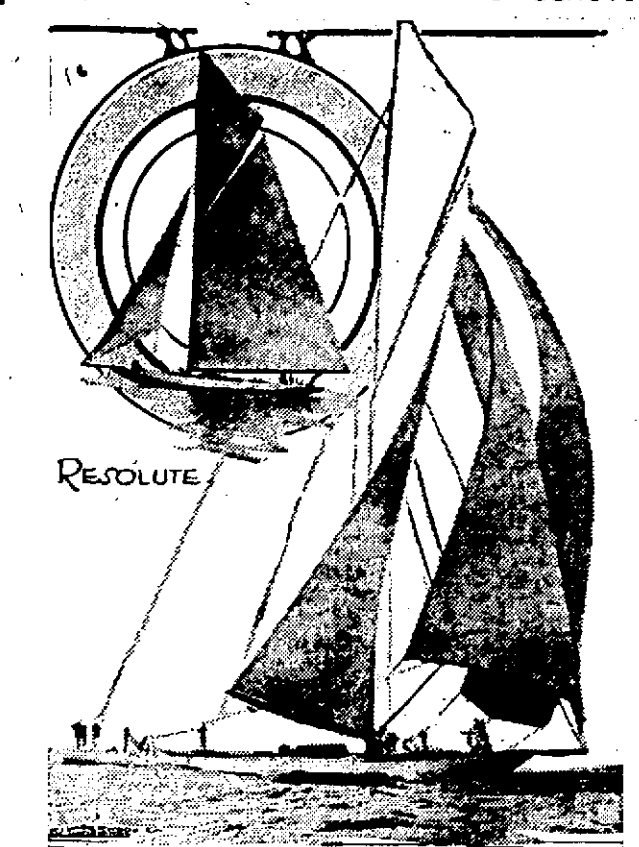

According to the present cup rules, a yacht is allowed one man for every 250 square feet of canvas. The Shamrock, with her 10,500 square feet of sails, will be entitled to 42 or 43 men. The Resolute's crew will be less, since her canvas measures but 9,000 square feet.

An idea of the amount of canvas in a yacht's suit of clothes can be gotten by comparison to an ordinary bed sheet. The standard bed sheet is 84 inches wide and 81 inches long. The canvas used on the Shamrock would make 355 sheets. It's heavy, too. Canvas in the mainsail alone weighs 1600 pounds.

It costs a lot to buy a yacht a new suit of clothes, too. A complete outfit would now cost around $75,000. So when one of the sails is ripped in the gales the repairs are expensive.

RESOLUTE THING OF GRACE AND BEAUTY

and this is almost constantly happening.

Shamrock Towers

As to the yachts that are to figure in the 13th classic, the challenger looms up beside the defender. While they were on drydock in the Brooklyn navy yards for measurement, the contrast was especially noticeable.

The Resolute is a thing of beauty, with her graceful curve and streamlines. Yet it almost looks dwarfed beside the towering Shamrock.

Steel Mast

The hull of the American craft is built of manganese bronze plates riveted to nickel steel frames. These plates are 5.32 inches thick. The deck is of aluminum 7.32 inches thick, covered with canvas and sand to give the skippers a safe footing.

Her mast is of hollow steel. The topmast, club, topsail spars and gaff are of wood, hollow. The mast measures 130 feet from deck to truck, the highest point. The boom is 71 feet, 6 inches long, and from the tip of the bowsprit to the fore side of the mast is 55 feet.

Wooden Mast

The Shamrock's mast is built of wood, hollow. From the deck to the truck it measures 118 feet. Above this the club, topsail is set, which towers 25 feet further up in the air. Since the deck at the mast step is six feet above the water line, the end of the club topsail yard is 175 feet above the water.

This is the first time it has been required to measure the competing yachts. There are 500 separate measurements made, which are to be checked with those submitted by the designers.

$5000 Cup

It is some job to pull off one of these yacht derbys. And the cup for which Lipton is spending a million to try to capture is valued at the paltry sum of about $500.

The famous Irish Ulster man says he doesn't want to win it on a fluke or accident. In case the Resolute is impaired by accident, he says he'll wait until she is repaired so he can win or lose in fair competition.

"Either you lick me or I lick you," he says.

An Aid to Wearing This Season's Fashions

(Helps to Beauty)

Here is a simple, unfailing way to rid the skin of objectionable hairs: With some powdered deodorant and water make enough paste to cover the hairy surface, apply and in about two minutes rub off, wash the skin and every trace of hair has vanished. This is quite harmless, but to avoid disappointment be sure to get the deodorant in an original package.—Adv.

able advance in charges Aug. 1 is likely to be, but they hope that the price rise that goes into effect next Sunday will be sufficient to cover any further advance that is made in costs three weeks hence.

There will be another season of price fluctuations the latter part of August. However, and a slight advance in prices the farmers are predicted. This, it is thought, is likely to make necessary another lift in local prices. How much the increase will probably be the local milkmen do not undertake to predict. Whether or not the price advance if made Sept. 1 will mark the end of the upward movement of charges.

Strongly Organized

The Lowell men who distribute milk say that one of the principal reasons why the farmers are able to demand and obtain higher prices for their milk is that in the New England Milk Producers' association they have a strong organization that it is able to very nearly enforce its own terms in making prices for the product of its members. It is claimed that the cost of producing milk is not greater today than it was a few months ago, and that, as a matter of fact, in the summer time the cost of keeping milk cattle is much lower than at any other time of the year.

The dealers assert that the cry that the farmers have made that they were being driven out of business because of their inability to obtain a price for their milk that would show a profit is not based upon facts. They say that the milk supply shows no signs of decreasing and that many farmers are constantly on the lookout for chances to buy cows and that they are showing a willingness to pay fancy prices for good milkers.

Figures obtained from Melvin F. Master, superintendent of the city's milk inspection department, seem to bear out the contention of the milkmen that there has been no recent decrease in the quantity of milk that is available for consumption. From figures compiled at the department it seems evident that approximately the quantity of milk being brought into Lowell every day at the present time is approximately the same as a year ago.

Show No Decrease

The statistics for the month of May, the last month for which figures are available, show that 37,573 quarts of milk a day were brought into the city during the month. Of this, quantity approximately 37,500 quarts came from towns in Massachusetts, about 600 quarts from New Hampshire, 3400 quarts from Maine and the rest from Vermont. Some of the milk from Vermont comes from as far north as St. Johnsbury, while that from Maine is all shipped from Auburn. A large part of the milk used in Lowell is more than 48 hours old when it reaches the consumer. In addition to the milk, 2734 quarts of cream and 1740 quarts of skimmed milk were consumed in the city on an average each day during May. It is pointed out that Lowell people show a considerable fondness for buttermilk as a beverage, the daily consumption for May having been 1350 quarts. It is claimed by persons in a position to know that a very mild alcoholic beverage can be produced by the manipulation of buttermilk.

Although accurate figures are not available, Mr. Master, of the milk department of the city, states that he believes that the consumption of milk at the present time is slightly greater than in May.

Although the prices for the lactical fluid are going up, the milk delivered in the city, according to the results of the inspections made by the milk department, shows a falling off in quality as represented by the total solids and butter fat contents. These have fallen below the standard required by law this month as they did for a short time in June. According to Mr. Master this does not indicate that the producers are overworking the farm pumps, but that such a drop in quality is to be expected in the summer when the cattle are out at pasture or are fed green hay and the owners attempt to sidestep heavy grain bills. The summer food contains more moisture than that ordinarily fed in winter and this results in inferior milk. The city milk department is constantly on the trail of producers whose milk falls below normal. It is said that very little adulterated milk is being offered for sale in Lowell.

The Bottle Famine

The increased prices demanded by farmers are not the only sources of trouble for the local milkmen. They claim that they are faced with a bottle famine. In fact they say that one is very nearly now here. There is a milk bottle exchange in the city and each dealer is supposed to return to it bottles that come into his possession bearing the name of any other dealer. But few bottles have been returned lately. It is stated, and all of the dealers are following the policy of grabbing and keeping all the bottles that they can lay their hands upon.

The bottle shortage is said to be due to the failure of the railroads to transport supplies that have been ordered. Four carloads of bottles containing about 300 gross, that were ordered months ago are still lost somewhere on the way between the factory of the maker and this city. Realizing the seriousness of the situation a committee of the dealers from this city visited the office of the manufacturers in Boston a short time ago and an appeal was made to the authorities at Washington to hurry up shipments. Thus far the appeal has failed to show any results.

The local milkmen have had the matter of making an appeal to consumers to use pitchers and pails for their milk instead of bottles under consideration, and it may be decided later to make such a request. Not only is there a shortage of bottles, but the caps that are used in sealing them have advanced in price over 300 per cent within a few months, and it is difficult to obtain a sufficient supply for daily use because of the transportation tie-up.

Milk Inspector Master says there would be no bottle shortage in Lowell if people would hunt up all the milk bottles that they have in their possession and that have been diverted to uses other than those for which they were intended and turn them back into the common supply. He makes an appeal, through The Sun, to all milk consumers to at once collect all of the bottles that they can find and notify the bottle exchange or a milk dealer, who will see that they are promptly called for. For the benefit of housewives who are using milk bottles as preserve jars and other household purposes, attention is called to the fact that the law makes it a misdemeanor to utilize a milk bottle for any other purpose than that for which it was originally intended.

General March has lost two stars. Perhaps Admiral Sims could let him have two of those Daniels made him see.

ARMY AIRPLANES OFF ON 9000-MILE TRIP

MINEOLA, N. Y., July 15.—Four army airplanes, comprising the Alaskan flying expedition, left Mitchell field at 12:35 this afternoon on a 9000 mile round trip flight to Nome, Alaska, probably the longest and most difficult air trip ever attempted in the western hemisphere.

The expedition, which is headed by Capt. St. Clair Street, United States air service, is expected to make the pioneer trip to Nome and return in approximately 45 days.

On reaching its Alaskan destination, the expedition will fly 100 miles to Cape Prince of Wales, which will bring it within 50 miles of the coast of Asia.

HAVERHILL MAN KILLED IN STORM

HAVERHILL, July 15.—Milton Woodman, aged 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Woodman, 1071 Broadway, was struck by lightning and instantly killed this afternoon, during a terrible electrical storm. Irving Atwood of Liberty street, who was riding with the Woodman youth on a load of hay, was knocked down and one arm and leg were paralyzed. The hay burst into flames. Atwood, unable to move, screamed for help. Walter Canney of Liberty street, working in a field nearby, was knocked down but revived in time to come to Atwood's assistance.

WE ARE NOT GOING OUT OF BUSINESS

Since the inauguration of our 13th Anniversary Sale, last Friday, the question of whether we are going out of business has so repeatedly been put up to us that we thought it advisable to answer it publicly. We can hardly blame the people who so think, because such bargains as we are offering during this sale would naturally give people the impression that we are through. Such is not the case, however. We are good for a good many years, with God's help. This sale is merely a yearly event in which we use all our energies, trying always to make the following year better than the preceding one, and making it an event worth remembering. Profits are thrown to the winds, our only aim being to please the people first. Below we quote a few bargains that will fairly give an idea of what this sale means to those who want the most for their money.

COMMERCIAL AVIATION

Shows Healthy Growth Along Lines of Popularity, Says Aircraft Report

NEW YORK, July 15.—Commercial aviation in the United States shows a healthy, steadily growing popularity, says the Manufacturers' Aircraft Association in making public here today the report of representatives who have just completed a tour of the country which included inspection flights over most of the territory now served by aerial transport.

"The airplane is undergoing the same development experienced by other vehicles of transportation introduced to the public, the various sections of the country according to its individual topography, customs and natural resources," the report said.

The southwest and Pacific coast are leading in the adoption of aircraft to commercial use and plans in preparation contemplate honeycombing that area with a network of aerial transportation lines. In the middle west the airplane is being adopted as the occasion demands, and it is meeting with encouraging success. The severe competition of good railroads and highways, lack of landing fields and the considerable indifference of the middle Atlantic states. New England is accepting it with customary conservatism; the south is using it mainly for private purposes and Florida and the West Indies have come to recognize flying as a most important method of communication.

"At present there are in the United States 15 manufacturers of aircraft and aircraft motors and 85 manufacturers of accessories. During the past few months 20 new airplanes distributing agencies have been established throughout the country and new aerial transport operating companies have been formed in New York City, San Francisco, Long Beach, Hollywood, Los Angeles, Oakland, Stockton and Alameda, Cal., Minneapolis, Minn., Philadelphia, Bluefields, West Virginia, Bettendorf, and Shreveport, La., Ponca City, Okla., Seattle and Spokane, Wash., Detroit, Mich., Arkansas City, Ark., Bridgeport, Conn., Aurora, Ill., Fargo, S. D., Cincinnati, O., Newell, S. D., Birmingham, Ala., Asbury Park, N. J., Livingston, Vt., Brooklyn and Syracuse, N. Y., and Rahway, N. J.

"Aviators are convinced of the practicability of establishing passenger and express lines throughout the entire Pacific coast, which, roughly speaking, consists of two great mountain ranges and a series of valleys. The plans for such lines, now in preparation, contemplate connecting San Francisco with Los Angeles, San Francisco with Del Monte, San Francisco with Portland, Ore., over the Cascade range, and Portland with Tacoma and Seattle, Wash., with an almost certain extension of this line eastward to Spokane. A 10-passenger airplane service already is in operation between San Francisco and Los Angeles and a steaplane mail and package express line between Seattle and British Columbia points will begin operations within a few weeks.

"At present there are some 150 airplanes in commercial use in California and 50 more in Oregon and Washington, while a number equal to that of California are in operation in Texas. Most of the machines in Texas are privately operated by persons who made fortunes in oil, but contracts recently were let for aircraft to be used in transporting supplies between cities and the oil fields. Mining and oil companies desiring emergency supplies or the replacement of special tools have come to depend on the airplane which, with the level lands and natural landing fields of the country and the long distance over which the railroads are unable to make quick time, has provided an impetus to commercial adoption of the airplane in Texas.

"A score of flying boats are in operation on the Mississippi and other rivers of the middle west, and 15 on Lake Michigan, with every indication pointing to a substantial increase of the number before winter. Negotiations also are underway for 10 American-built flying boats of the recently produced 12 and 15-passenger type for use over the Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence river.

"Two companies that last winter operated a flying boat service from Florida to Bimini, Havana and Nassau, and carried more than 3000 passengers, are now employing between 10 and 15 machines in a fairly regular service between New York, Boston and Atlantic City. Both of these operating companies have been financially successful and have announced that they will double their equipment this winter."

"For years it has been proved that so-called external remedies applied to or inserted in the rectum cannot cure piles, and at the best can only give temporary relief. Surgical operations also do not remove the cause, but simply the formation.

This wonderful prescription, known as Miro Pile Remedy, is so efficient in the treatment of piles, that even chronic cases of from 20 to 30 years' standing with profuse bleeding have been completely cured in from three to ten days. Think of it! Just a few doses of a carefully balanced prescription and the most persistent case of piles is absorbed, never to return.

All pharmacists dispense Miro Pile Remedy. What is known as itching piles are not piles in the true sense of the word, although this condition may accompany a true case of piles. For this condition Miro Pile Ointment has been prepared as in such cases it is not necessary to take the internal prescription. Fred Howard sells it on the money-back if dissatisfied plan.—Adv.

SENATOR HARDING TALKS LA FOLLETTE REFUSES ON WOMAN SUFFRAGE

MARION, O., July 15.—Senator Harding in a statement last night repeated what he characterized as "persistent misrepresentations" of the republican party's attitude toward woman suffrage and said to that party belonged the credit for the reform ever having a chance of success.

He deplored, however, efforts to make political capital out of the situation and said he hoped ratification would be accomplished before November, no matter whether a democratic or republican state was the 36th to approve the suffrage amendment.

"My patience is sorely tested sometimes over the persistent misrepresentations of the republican party, its state governors and legislatures, in this matter of woman suffrage," Senator Harding said. "Whether it emanates from mere mischief-makers or from partisan desires, I cannot help resenting it. We must insist on having fair treatment of the party without whose persistent support the great reform would never have had a chance of success."

"Whether in the senate or house, in congress or state legislatures, the record shows that the republicans have been the persistent and effective supporters of this measure. In such circumstances—circumstances that are thoroughly familiar to everybody—it is simply amazing that democratic managers should now have the audacity to assume that they are the friends on whom the cause must depend if it is to succeed."

"For myself, and for the republican party, I earnestly desire that ratification may be accomplished in time to give the whole body of American women the ballot in next November. I am wearied with efforts to make partisan advantage out of this situation. I hope there will be ratification and I do not care a fig whether it is secured through a republican or a democratic state."

BOLSHEVIKI CROSS VILYA RIVER

LONDON, July 15.—Russian Bolshevik forces have forced their way across the Vilya river, in the province of Vilna, on the north, and have driven the Poles out of the city of Kamenetz-Podolsk on the southern end of the Polish front, according to an official statement issued at Moscow yesterday and received here by wireless.

West of Molodetchno, northwest of Minsk, the soviet forces are approaching the positions held by the German armies during the Polish campaign of 1916, the statement says. In the regions of Baranovitchi and Slutsk, south of Minsk, the Bolshevik advance continues successfully. It is declared fierce resistance on the part of the Poles on the entire front between the Dvina and Dniester rivers, is taking place.

LA FOLLETTE REFUSES Declines to Head New Party Platform Acceptance

CHICAGO, July 15.—The labor group was dominant when the new fusion party adopted a platform late yesterday in preparation for nomination of candidates at last night's session.

A minority report from the platform committee was sponsored by three of the five representatives of the committee of 48, but was defeated by a vote of slightly less than 1 to 1. The majority report was signed by the five labor members of the committee on resolutions and two of the party of 48's representatives. It was adopted by a big majority, which on motion was made unanimous.

Defections from the ranks of the new party began when it was shown that the minority report would be overwhelmingly defeated. James Ferguson, former governor of Texas, was the first openly to pull out of the meeting. He was followed by delegates from several states, none of whom was identified with the labor party.

A near stampede developed when an attempt was made to forestall introduction of the majority platform report by the submission to the convention of a report that was reputed to be acceptable to Senator Robert M. La Follette. The senator's friends launched the attack with a declaration that the convention was boss-ridden and clique-controlled and that the senator's own platform ideas had been hurried in secret committee meeting.

The storm broke with all the fury of a riot and La Follette delegates were quick to seize the psychological moment to spring their presidential boom. A big photograph of the senator, flag-draped, and a huge banner inscribed with his name were swung before the convention and the demonstration was on. It lasted about three-quarters of an hour.

Then a move was made to read the senator's platform, but it was blocked by the decision of the chairman, who ruled that the majority report of the committee on resolutions was before the convention and must be dealt with first. The La Follette platform was never brought up again, but the minority report, which was later defeated, was said by its supporters to be acceptable to the Wisconsin solon.

The statement of George L. Record, who presented the minority report, that, if it were adopted, Sen. La Follette would be willing to run on it, was challenged by Gilbert E. Roe, the senator's representative, Roe reiterating previous announcements that La Follette did not desire the nomination.

Cocoon Oil Makes A Splendid Shampoo

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Multisided cocoon oil shampoo, which is pure and entirely greaseless, is much better than anything else you can use for shampooing.

As this can't possibly injure the hair, simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get Multisided cocoon oil shampoo at most any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months.—Adv.

New Concrete Bridge

Continued

Mayer Perry D. Thompson persisted in his attitude shown at Tuesday's meeting when he said that he believed the cost of the bridge was too steep for the city to afford and that new bids should be called for. On the other hand, Commissioner Dennis A. Murphy urged immediate action so that the work may be started without delay. Accordingly, the vote of approval was passed, 4 to 1. Work will start on the structure within a week or 10 days.

Meeting in Detail

Mayer Thompson called to order at 10.40. All members were present.

A petition from John J. Gookin for a sidewalk at 15 Aberdeen street was referred to Commissioner Murphy.

A favorable report from Commissioner Murphy on the petition of the High street church proprietors was ordered to remain in the city clerk's office for seven days before action is taken.

It was voted to pay to John B. Riley $144.39 in full settlement for injuries sustained on Jan. 2, 1920. Riley is an employee of the public property department. The expense is to be charged to the appropriation for workmen's compensation.

Bridge Contract Approved

Commissioner Murphy then introduced again a vote approving a contract between the city and Frederick F. Meloy for the construction of a reinforced concrete bridge over the Concord river in Lawrence street at a cost of $69,789.

Mr. Murphy said that he was in the same frame of mind relative to the matter as he was when it came up at Tuesday's meeting. He believed the contract should be approved at once.

Mayer Thompson, however, said he was still opposed to the approval of the contract as he believed a lower figure might be obtained by calling for new bids.

The roll was called and the contract approved by a vote of 4 to 1, the mayor alone being opposed.

The city auditor was instructed to issue a warrant upon the city treasurer for $220 for the purchase of postage stamps.

Adjourned at 10.50 a. m. until Tuesday next at 10 a. m.

THE RYNE HEARING

Clarence M. Weed, chairman of the board of park commissioners, says that the reason Patrolman Michael F. Ryne was not given a hearing at the office of the park department yesterday noon was that on Saturday last Mr. Ryne and he made arrangements to have the hearing held Thursday noon—today. According to Chairman Weed, Mr. Ryne evidently misunderstood the date of the appointment.

QUINCY JUMPS AHEAD

WASHINGTON, July 15.—Revised population of 47,816 instead of 45,611 as bureau show Quincy, Mass., to have aures announced today by the census previously announced, or an increase of 265.

DON'T STAY RUN DOWN

If you have been indiscreet in eating, living habits, or your system taxed by overwork, and you have become all run down, don't stay that way, it is dangerous, as you are in a condition to take on many other more serious diseases. Build yourself up again by simply taking from 10 to 20 drops of SEVEN BARKS in a little water after each meal, and watch how quickly you will regain your normal health again.

People beyond the age of middle life cannot stand what they used to, and have to be more discreet in all of their modes of living. The majority of such people need to take occasionally a good stomach and liver regulator, for it is an indisputable fact that by keeping the liver active and digestive organs cleansed and in proper working order, old age can be deferred and life prolonged far beyond that enjoyed by the average person. To attain this there is no better remedy than SEVEN BARKS, which has for many, many years faithfully and successfully served the public.

If your system gets run-down, take warning, or you will be sorry when it's too late. Take plenty of exercise, fresh air, keep good hours, eat moderately of the right food, and tone up your stomach, liver and kidneys by taking SEVEN BARKS. For sale by druggists, 60 cents per bottle.—Adv.

CHILD SAVED
BY MOTHER

Gertrude Lamarre, 6-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Asseline Lamarre, 32 Main street, Sanford, Me., was saved from fits by the prompt action of her mother who administered Dr. Tru's Elixir.

After Lamarre wrote the following to Dr. J. F. True & Co.: "My daughter, Gertrude, had dizzy spells and could not even go out for she always complained of being sick. She used your elixir (Dr. Tru's Elixir, the Family Laxative and Worm Expeller.) She never had any fits since. I feel very grateful to you."

Symptoms of worms: Constipation, deranged stomach, swollen upper lip, sour stomach, offensive breath, hard and fully belly, with occasional griping and pains about the navel, pale face of leaden tint, eyes heavy and dull, twitching eyelids, itching of the nose, itching of the rectum, short dry cough, grinding of the teeth, little red points sticking out on the tongue, starting during sleep, slow fever.

Dr. Tru's Elixir has been faithful in its duties as a family Laxative and Worm Expeller, since 1851—over 68 years' reputation. Everyone can improve their health by simply looking after the bowels—pure herb, laxative which Dr. Tru's Elixir is, will promptly relieve all worry and disorders. AT ALL DEALERS.—Adv.

MAYOR SAYS ANOTHER
AUDIT UNNECESSARY

There will be no state audit of Lowell's accounts this year, if Mayor Perry D. Thompson has his way, despite the fact that chapter 215 of the acts of 1920 stipulates that the books of every municipality in the commonwealth shall be audited by the state once every three years beginning this year.

However, Lowell has had her 1920 audit and the report of the same has been presented to the commissioner of finance, James E. Donnelly, by Everett A. Tarbox, who did the work. The mayor sees no reason why the city should be put to the extra expense of having a second audit in one year.

Theodore N. Waddell, state auditor of accounts, has written to the mayor, stating that the officials of his office are preparing to begin their work of auditing in the various cities of the commonwealth and would like to arrange a suitable time for the work to be done in Lowell. Mayor Thompson will turn the matter over to Commissioner Donnelly with the suggestion that the Lowell audit be delayed until next year.

LOCAL OBSERVANCE OF LABOR DAY

Lowell's Labor day observance this year will consist of a parade of labor organizations in the morning and a band concert and exercises on the South common in the evening, according to a communication received by Mayor Perry D. Thompson today from the Lowell Trades and Labor council, inviting him to be one of the speakers at the evening exercises. The mayor will accept the invitation which was sent by the committee in charge of the day's observance, J. Frank Burke, chairman.

DANIELS "BREAKS NEWS" TO ROOSEVELT

"This'll be no back-porch campaign," said Franklin D. Roosevelt, with a tone that resembled his illustrious cousin's, after he had accepted the nomination as vice-presidential candidate of the democrats. "We'll make a clean fight, straight from the shoulder, and we'll win." Roosevelt is assistant secretary of the navy, and it is fitting that his chief, Josephus Daniels, after praising him, at the convention hall in a eulogistic speech, should be the one to break the news of his nomination to his young assistant. He did both with a deal of real affection and pride. The staff camera man for The Sun was on the job when Daniels drew up to the Bellevue hotel and snapped the two heads of the United States navy in a very proud moment of their lives.

LOCAL POLICE KNOW HELEN BOTTOMLEY

Miss Helen Bottomley, arrested in Boston on a larceny charge in connection with check transactions, it is alleged, has a police record in Lowell. It is asserted that she was employed in a Central street store in 1909, and at that time secured a commutation trip ticket, good for passage between Boston and Lowell, which she failed to return or make a proper accounting for. It is stated that she was taken before the late Judge Hadley, who placed her in the hands of Miss Emily Skilton. Later, after an examination by Dr. Benner, she was sent to the Worcester state hospital for observation. From there she was transferred to Westboro, the police assert. Later she was removed to Tewksbury. From there it is supposed she went to New York city. The young woman is said to have had a very attractive appearance when in Lowell.

DISCOUNT BANKING METHODS EXPLAINED

About a score of Lowell bankers and business men were present at a luncheon in St. Anne's parish house last evening at which the methods of discount banking were explained by representatives of the American Discount corporation, whose head offices are in Boston. The attendance was smaller than had been expected, due, it was explained, to the warm weather. It is expected that another similar meeting will be held later.

Some More Truths.

WOULD you use a steam shovel to move a pebble? Certainly not. Implements are built according to the work they have to do.

Would you use a grown-up's remedy for your baby's ills? Certainly not. Remedies are prepared according to the work THEY have to do.

All this is preliminary to reminding you that Fletcher's Castoria was sought out, found and is prepared solely as a remedy for Infants and Children. And let this be a warning against Substitutes, Counterfeits and the Just-as-good stuff that may be all right for you in all your strength, but dangerous for the little babe.

All the mother-love that lies within your heart cries out to you: Be true to Baby. And being true to Baby you will keep in the house remedies specially prepared for babies as you would a baby's food, hairbrush, toothbrush or sponge.

Children Cry For Fletcher's CASTORIA

Are You Prepared?

A doctor in the house all the time would be a good idea. Yet you can't afford to keep a doctor in the family to keep baby well or prevent sickness. But you can do almost the same thing by having at hand a bottle of Fletcher's Castoria, because it is a wonderful remedy for indigestion, colic, feverishness, fretfulness and all the other disorders that result from common ailments that babies have.

Fletcher's Castoria is perfectly safe to use. It is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. Children cry for Fletcher's Castoria, and mothers recommend it because they have found it a comfort to children and a mother's friend.

If you love your baby, you know how sweet it is to be able to help baby when trouble comes. You cannot always call upon a doctor. But doctors have, nothing but good to say of Fletcher's Castoria, because they know that it can only do good—that it can't do any harm—and they wouldn't want you to use for baby a remedy that you would use for yourself.

MOTHERS SHOULD READ THE BOOKLET THAT IS AROUND EVERY BOTTLE OF FLETCHER'S CASTORIA.

years treasurer of the commonwealth and now president of the discount corporation, was the first speaker. He said that his concern intended to build up a strong conservative business and that he hoped it would not be compared with some fly-by-night companies whose principal business

William R. Allen, a former governor of Montana and also an officer of the corporation, made a brief address in which he spoke of business connections in Lowell in years past.

Seth T. Gano, associated with Lee, Higginson & Co. of Boston and a representative of the discount corporation, spoke of the discount system as being a handmaiden of the banks and claimed that it liquefies frozen credits and increases facilities of doing business.

W. Robert Montgomery, credit manager of the corporation, explained the methods of discount banking. He said that the methods had been in successful use in England for many years and told of the way in which credit accounts of business men are purchased by bill of sale for 75 per cent of their face value, interest at the rate of 1 1/2 to 3 per cent a month being charged on the money advanced. Numerous questions were asked by those present.

MAINE INCREASES HER POTATO ACREAGE

port issued today by V. A. Sanders, field agent of the bureau of crop estimates of the United States department of agriculture. Acreage in the Aroostook region has been increased 15 per cent. over last year and the rest of Maine shows an increase of 16 per cent.

The figures for Aroostook are 90,000 acres against 79,000 in 1919 and for the rest of Maine 23,000 against 24,000. Good prices for last year's crop and the receipt of sufficient fertilizer, are given as the reasons for the unexpected increase.

The potato crop forecast for other New England states shows increases of eight and nine per cent. In Vermont and New Hampshire, respectively, decreases of 15 and 16 per cent. in Rhode Island, and Connecticut and Massachusetts acreage unchanged.

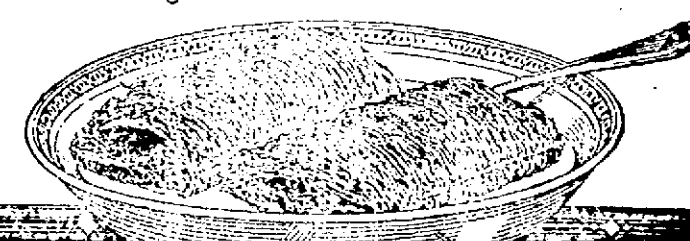

The commercial apple crop indicates an increase of nine per cent. over last year, with 1,539,000 barrels. Maine is the only state showing a decrease. In Connecticut the increase is 25 per cent. All states show better quality, the report says.

Peaches are reported a failure in New Hampshire, not more than a 10 per cent. crop in Massachusetts and about a 20 per cent. crop in Rhode Island and Connecticut.

Hay gives promise of a bumper crop in most states.

It was very convenient for the dwellers in Maple-Tree Apartments to have the Mouses so near, and to make things still nicer, a little dumb-waiter (elevator) ran up and down inside the tree, which carried garbage cans and laundry baskets, and furniture when folks were moving in or out.

When Tingaling and Nancy and Nick arrived for the rent, carrying the rent book, and the large lead pencil, Munchie was just washing up at the kitchen sink, getting ready to eat his dinner, and Mrs. Munchie was folding away the last of the Squirrel family's clothes in their basket, while the coffee boiled.

"Hello, Munchie," called the fairy landlord through the window. "Rent day!"

"Why, so it is," answered Munchie, rolling down his sleeves and opening the door. "Come in, Mr. Tingaling, won't you?"

"Company's with me," answered the fairyman.

So in they filed, including the Magical Mushroom.

Mrs. Munchie put her laundry basket on the elevator and pulled the rope. Thereupon the basket, elevator and all went up, up and up, to the Squirrel family's floor, where it stopped, and the next thing they heard was Mrs. Samantha dragging the basket out.

"Now," said Mrs. Munchie untying her apron, "come and sit down, folks, while the cheese cakes are hot." Which they all did, but where they got cheese I'll never tell you, unless it might be from the milkweed!

AMUSEMENT NOTES

(By Theatres' Own Press Agents)

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

There's a fine warm weather program on tap at the Merrimack Square theatre for the latter half of the week. Bessie Barriscale, one of the most attractive stars before the public today, is being featured in "The Notorious Mrs. Sands," a strong dramatic offering, dealing with modern society. It tells the story of a girl forced into an unwelcome marriage despite her love for another. The other feature of the current program is "The Butterfly Man," starring Lew Cody. The story is from the novel by F. Scott Fitzgerald and is most absorbing. The bill is rounded out by a comedy, the Burton Holmes travel pictures and the International News.

THE STRAND

Would you buy, at the expense of your country, your life and perhaps that of the girl you love? Robert Trevor had been accused by a dying man of murder. The dead man's wife was also implicated. At the eleventh hour an agent of a foreign country offered to testify that he had committed the murder if Trevor would turn over to him certain dye formulas belonging to the United States and wanted by the spy's country. What did Robert Trevor say to that proposition? Did his love for the girl over-balance his love for his country? Was the girl, too, willing to make the sacrifice? "The Blood Barrier," which is to be shown at The Strand for the first time today, presents such an interesting situation as that above. To relate how it develops and what the ultimate outcome is would be to deprive many patrons of the real good that is in the picture story. Suffice it to say that many interesting and new angles are evolved ere the big climax comes at the close. Don't miss it if you like tense situations of real action. Sylvia Breamer and Robert Gordon are the stars.

Taylor Holmes in "Nothing But Lies," is the other big feature for the weekend. It's a highly amusing comedy and it has "nothing but laughs" in its entire length. It has a most amusing plot that has to do with the efforts of a young man to cover up a friend's mistake, made at the instigation of a radical young woman known as Riot Rosie—a she-Bolshevik. Just see the picture and laugh yourself tired. The usual comedy and Weekly will also be shown.

THE OWL

The work of beautiful Claire Adams as the feminine romantic lead of "Riders of the Dawn," Benjamin E. Hampton's big photoplay from Zane Grey's novel, "The Desert of Wheat," appearing at the Owl theatre for the remainder of the week, is most favorably commented on. She is an absolute foil to the bigness and stalwartness of Roy Stewart. Hitherto noted chiefly for her dramatic acting, this emphasis on the romantic side of her appeal in "Riders of the Dawn" has

PARIS, July 13.—That Georges Clemenceau, the former premier, has definitely withdrawn from active politics and worries little about criticisms leveled at him by enemies of his regime and of the Versailles treaty, was shown the other day when the correspondent of The Associated Press called on him to obtain his reply to the taunts of his adversaries in the chamber of deputies to the effect that he did not know where Mount (Turkey) was located when he ceded it to Great Britain.

"These professors of geography, who are criticizing me," replied the former premier, "would be greatly embarrassed if some one should ask the location of a town of that size in their own circumscriptions." The statesman, now entering his 80th year, looked hale and vigorous and in on the first draft of a novel dealing with Egyptian life, said he was the attempt upon his life by Enali through with politics forever. "My Cottin."

Saved from hard rubbing and boiling, your clothes washed with Rinso last twice as long

Sheets—ordinary tablecloths and heavy bedspreads

Now you can just soak them clean

THESE bulky things can now be washed at home almost as easily as handkerchiefs!

No need to rub them on the washboard. No need to boil them. Hours of heavy lifting and awkward handling saved. All you do is soak them and rinse them and they are ready for the line—snow-white, with not the shadow of a speck on them!

How can just soaking make them clean?

Easily. If you soak them in Rinso suds.

Rinso is a new form of soap for the family washing. Not a cake of soap, not a washing powder. It comes in fine granules so rich in pure soap that they loosen every bit of dirt as the clothes soak. When you rinse the clothes the dirt just falls out.

Only badly soiled places need a very little rubbing with your hands to make these, too, gleaming white! Even in cold water Rinso cleans in the same wonderful way.

And best of all, there are no harsh cleansing agents in Rinso, no gritty substances to "eat" your clothes. It is so pure and mild that your clothes soak as safely in Rinso suds as in water.

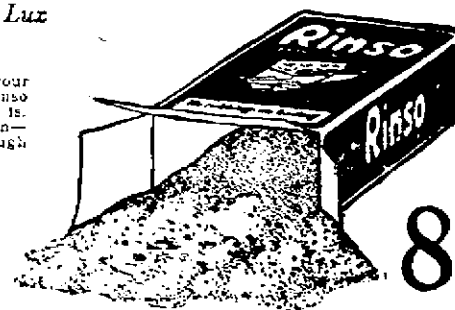

Those sheets now in your hamper—get them out and try washing them this new Rinso way. Nothing will so well show you how wonderful Rinso really is. Get a package today from your grocer. Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Mass.

"Women like to keep men guessing," says a wire story from Washington. They usually succeed.

The state department of agriculture reports a bumper crop of tobacco. Does this presage a reduction in the high cost of living that is to go up in smoke?

It seems strange that in the case of Debs, who tried hard during the war to get into jail, his friends should now be so anxious to get him out.

The statement of Emma Goldman that the Bolsheviks have killed 200 of the Reds, who were deported on the ark Buford, recalls that we have heard before of a tigress destroying her own cubs.

Federal officials continue to secure indictments against alleged profiteers, and presumably it is within the range of possibilities that some day we may hear that they have obtained a conviction.

There is certainly some first class literary ability being employed by Lowell banks in preparing their newspaper advertising. If you don't believe it, look over the advertising columns of The Sun almost any day.

Thank you, gentlemen of the public utilities commission, for the cut ordered in the rates for seasonal telephones. It encourages the hope that some day we shall be able to talk more cheaply over the wires all the year round.

The Harding way of conducting a campaign from a front porch may be more dignified, but the Cox method of swinging about over the country, talking to the people and giving them a chance to see him, savors more of democracy.

The Protectionist devotes considerable space to praise of the face of Calvin Coolidge. It is a very good face doubtless—anyway it's the best that Mr. Coolidge has—but it isn't the face of the next vice president unless all signs fail.

"There is no danger that the country will starve this year," says J. H. Howard, president of the American farm bureau federation. Probably there are not many of us who really thought we should. Nevertheless, the announcement is reassuring.

It must be worse than facing the high prices of the profiteers to be in the shoes of New England farmers with hay worth $30 a ton and long acres of ripened grass rippling untouched in the sun with no prospect of a mowing machine being run over them because of the shortage of farm labor.

"There is no shortage of coal," says the president of the American Wholesale Coal association. "The coal situation in Massachusetts is extremely critical," says the state fuel administrator. T. R.'s shorter and uglier word suggests itself as having possibilities of usefulness here.

The people of Pawtucketville are to have a chance to bury the petition for a license to operate a dance hall on the boulevard, at a hearing before the license commission, so deep that if it ever looks the nearest way for resurrection it will make its appearance in the antipodes.

It is sad to recall, as another Bastille day passes into history, that political liberty is still a stranger to such a large part of mankind. Bolshevik Russia lies crushed under a tyranny worse, if possible, than that against which the peasants of the French revolution revolted. Ireland is still "the No. 1 of nations, all tears" under the dominance of a tyrannous and oppressing government. Four hundred million people in India are, in the words of Macaulay, still "ruled by the sword."

Our esteemed contemporary has now fallen afoul of a sentence accredited to Vice Presidential Nominee Roosevelt, the grammatical construction of which it rather flippantly condemns. In its criticism appears the phrase, "Mr. Roosevelt graduated (from Harvard) at about the same time with Hon. John Jacob Rogers." We expect such solecisms as "at about" in the ordinary run of the news columns, but never as coming from the learned editor who has arrogated to himself the duties of grammar censor, plenipotentiary and extraordinary heresay. Then, if he graduated "with" how could he have graduated "at about the same time?"

SOLDIER'S WIDOW STARVING

When the widow of a Civil war veteran collapsed in the office of the soldiers' relief department at Boston, there was proof of the heartlessness of the red tape arrangement that gives only as little as possible and only where refusal would plainly violate a mandatory law. This woman's husband had died some time ago in the soldiers' home and although she was 73 years old, she was left to shift for herself until she was found starving. It is feared that there are many such cases in which people who deserve care and sustenance are neglected. Many of the officials in the state aid offices try to find some ground for refusing the simplest request made by a veteran and for the widow or dependents of a deceased veteran they have no sympathy whatever. Such people should not be placed in charge of relief departments. The Boston case is not at all uncommon.

HIGH-TONED CHARITY

An example of high-toned benevolence comes to light in Boston in a case in which various creditors demand payment of bills amounting to $20,000, the same having been incurred last May for the presentation of a biblical pageant entitled "The Chosen King." It was patronized and abundantly matronized by Back Bay society women and the proceeds were to be devoted to the service fund of the Salvation Army. Instead of receiving anything from the presentation the army loaned the committee $1000 with which to meet preliminary expenses. A young lady from Marblehead wrote the pageant and just who may be held responsible for the bills has not yet been determined. It may be recalled that during the war certain society ladies of New York undertook to raise a great fund but, as the expenditures were so large that they were eating up the receipts, the undertaking was abandoned. Such "patriotic" and "charitable" workers would bankrupt public charity by their display of vanity. They are only notoriety seekers and posers.

UNCLE SAM'S INSURANCE

The federal government's insurance business is doing very well. Advance figures of the year ending June 30 indicate this.

Policies covering more than 40 billion dollars of insurance are carried. This exceeds any private life insurance record ever made. Over four and a half million policy holders carry United States insurance. They are getting this protection at less cost than private corporations could give it to them. This, of course, is to be expected, for private concerns are in the business for a profit. And, too, the cost of doing business is lighter for Uncle Sam. He has less soliciting to do, no commissions to pay, and fewer overhead expenses.

Thus far, as the 1920 report shows, the war risk insurance bureau has done well. But the real test is to come. While other businesses may be fairly accurately gauged after a two-year trial it is not so with life insurance. There the real strain comes with the aging of the insured. The death rate grows; claims pile high and higher. Private concerns constantly reveal the youthfulness of their policy lists by the addition of younger persons, persons fit physically to pass examinations.

The war risk bureau started with an ideal collection of policy holders. All were young, in the flower of manhood, physically fit, and to this was added physical training in the outdoors.

Government insurance is not an assured success. But it may be come so if the business is done in a manner as careful, as businesslike, as efficient as private insurance concerns do it. All other things being equally well done the government insurance should be lower in cost by reason of the elimination of profit and high cost of competitive business-getting. N. E. A.

TRADE WITH RUSSIA

The state department announces it has authorized resumption of trade with Russia.

But the department announces that "individuals do so on their own responsibility and on their own risks." Furthermore, no recognition is accorded the soviet government—not even recognition as a de facto government—so that no legal or other protection can possibly be given to American business men desirous of doing business in Russia. Furthermore, passports will not be issued to commercial representatives or agents who may desire to go to Russia to develop trade; further, no commodity which could by any possibility be devoted to war use will be permitted to be exported.

The postoffice will not accept any mail for Russia; it will be impossible to forward goods by parcel post, or even communicate with agents in Russia.

Outside of these restrictions and any others that the department can think of when any merchant actually gets to the point of sending a shipload of goods to Russia, Americans are quite free now to trade with Russia.—N. E. A.

SCURRILOUS METHODS

Already the New York Sun and Boston Herald are digging into newspaper records to find any morsel of news or editorial comment that might serve to reflect upon Governor Cox of Ohio, the democratic nominee for president. They have editorials printed in Mr. Cox's paper, the Dayton News, before the declaration of war and isolated extracts are brought forward to sustain the charge that the governor was then pro-German. Like many others, the governor's paper said some complimentary things of Germany and the German-American citizens before the war.

In that course, every American newspaper was fully privileged to do so; but the quotations from the Dayton News are not such as to indicate any strong pro-German sentiment, as they simply recognize an important element of our population as having a right to due consideration as Americans.

Nothing has been shown in these extracts to injure the standing of Governor Cox as a real American. The efforts of the papers mentioned to adduce some evidence of this kind, indicate their plan of campaign which is to resort to the lowest brand of journalism in order to cast a stigma, if possible, upon the democratic candidate.

They have raked up his divorce case but have been unable to show that there was any immoral charge involved in the case on either side. Apparently Mrs. Cox brought the charge of incompatibility of temper and on this ground sought divorce. She may have discovered "an affinity" with whom she looked forward to an early union; and the fact that she was soon married to the lawyer who helped her to get the divorce, lends color to that theory. Governor Cox entered no defense and submitted to the decree of the court.

It shows a degree of hypocrisy for men who have never before lifted their voices against the divorce evil, and who may themselves resort to the divorce court at any time, to come out in an effort to besmirch the character of the democratic nominee because he had been a victim of a law which is approved in every state of the union. Apparently these republican organs are seeking some scandal with which to blacken the good name of Governor Cox. If that is their method of campaign, it will fail utterly and it deserves to fail.

If the republican majority in Ohio thought enough of Governor Cox to elect him three times their chief executive, they must have a pretty high opinion of him. In forming a fair and true estimate of the man, we prefer to take the word of the republicans who know him to that of the newspapers which are now out with malice preposited to blacken his character as a means of helping to accomplish his defeat. These articles, although purporting to deal with records, are distorting the facts in an effort to help the republican cause—and perhaps for a price.

There can be no objection, however, to any fair presentation of the facts of the private life of any candidate. The people want to know the stamp of men who are asking their support. The republicans are now out with malice preposited to blacken his character as a means of helping to accomplish his defeat. These articles, although purporting to deal with records, are distorting the facts in an effort to help the republican cause—and perhaps for a price.

"But did he wag it up and down or from side to side?"
"Why, from side to side, of course."

"Well, I should say that he meant he was not pleased."—Yonkers Statesman.

"What are you doing in the kitchen, Thomas?" inquired the inquisitive wife.
"I'm opening a can of tomatoes, if you particularly wish to know," he impatiently rejoined.

"And what are you opening it with?"
"Why, with a can opener. Did you think I was using my teeth?" he added savagely.

"Oh, no, dear," she sweetly replied; "but I do know you are not opening it with prayer."—Montbala Free Press.

More to Be Fitted

To the rear door of the house of a lonely spinster in a Pennsylvania town there recently came a steady-looking person, who, after being given some food, made so bold as to proffer this additional request:

"Missus, ask your husband if he ain't got an old pair of trousers, to give me?"

Whereupon the spinster anxious not to expose her solitude, replied:
"I am sorry, my good man, but he—er—never wears such things."—Harper's.

Recompense

He sang green fields and country lanes
Of Spring
Of garden's scents and fragrance passing sweet—
Who only knew the drab environment
And cobbles of a sordid city street.

On home and happiness his fancy dwelt—
The love of kin, the hand-grasp of a friend—
Who in an attic lived, with but his dog.

To bark in welcome at the drear day's end.

And yet—such lonely hearts who warm themselves
By the faint fire of their imaginings
Have this one recompense—they never know
How often love and happiness take wings!

A. G. CADETS OUTING AT CANOBIE TODAY

The fifteenth annual outing of the A. G. Cadets was held at Canobie lake today. Five special cars left Merrimack square this morning at 8 o'clock. Rev. Rosario J. J. O'Malley, spiritual director for the cadets was in direct charge. Upon their arrival at the park the young cadets had time to run off a few of the sports before the downpour of rain came at the noon hour. The program for good weather had included baseball and many games. Patrolman Joseph L. Lamoureux was in charge of the sports. Excitement for the afternoon was dampened and activities were confined to the "hobby horses" and other scattered places. About 200 people from St. Joseph's parish went on the outing.

HOUSE LOTS AT BELVIDERE PARK

Mr. Flagg, agent for the Park Land company reports a number of sales this week of house lots at Belvidere park in that beautiful residential section down on Ardover street. He tells us that a number of recent purchasers are preparing plans for home building and in a short time this section will undoubtedly take on a building boom. While the lots are selling fast, there are some splendid ones remaining. Some as low as $175. Any lot can be purchased on easy terms if preferred. Now is the opportune time to secure one of these building lots even though you hold it for awhile before building. Mr. Flagg will be on the ground Friday, Saturday and Sunday to meet prospective purchasers. Take Ardover street car.

LUCY LARSON CLUB

The Lucy Larson club of West Tewksbury held an outing at Canobie lake yesterday. The members of the club met at Merrimack square at 10 o'clock and took the Lawrence car and first visited the Old Ladies' Home in that city before starting for the park where they had dinner. The return was made about 5 o'clock. Mrs. John McCord, president of the club was in charge of the arrangements.

It looks like the more long-green women pay for their dresses the shorter they get.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

Judging from various announcements recently made, it would appear that there will be a great many educational courses available in this city for people who have already left school and who wish to continue their studies. There will be courses offered in special branches intended to enable people who work in the factories and elsewhere to prepare for higher positions. The great trouble seems to be, that after leaving school the great majority of young men do not care to give their time to any useful study. Apparently they do not realize the possibilities of self-advancement offered in these courses provided by the university extension department, the evening high school and the Textile school. It is not too soon to look into these matters and select courses for study during the fall and winter.

At present there are several ordinances restricting the parking of automobiles to certain sections of the business streets of the city, the object being to avoid congestion of traffic. The ordinance submitted by Commissioner Salmon and passed at the city council meeting on Tuesday affects all parts of the city where there are hydrants or firehouses. It will go into effect on the 17th of this month and will call for much additional work by the police, especially in the outlying sections of the city. The police, however, will be instructed to enforce this ordinance throughout the city, so that those who fail to comply with its provisions are likely to get into trouble. Hydrants must be held ready for immediate use; and an auto left in front of a hydrant is liable, at any time, to obstruct the firemen in case it should be required for use in fire fighting. That is why an ordinance is necessary to prevent obstruction of the fire department in any emergency.

Some idea of just what the new high school in Kirk street will look like when completed is now afforded the passerby as the first bricks that will eventually become a part of the exterior of the building have been put in place. I am not enough of a building expert to give the precise name of the kind of brick but they are of the light brown type, similar to those of the old high school building and the Textile school in Moody street. They present a most attractive appearance and when the few that are already in place are magnified by hundreds of others that will go to make up the exterior of the big building, the general impression should be exceptionally inviting. It will be many months, of course, before the outer walls of the school are completed, but there is every indication just now that after years of delay Lowell will have a building of which she may be justly proud.

There is no more enjoyable day in the entire course of the year for the store workers than that on which they go to the beach or some popular resort for a whole day's outing. It is refreshing to see the employers mingle with their help in the various games and sports, fully as human and susceptible to surrounding influences as their most humble employe. No longer are they superintendents, heads of departments, floorwalkers or bosses, but just as common, ordinary members of the party, just as liable as any to win or lose in the games of chance, the athletic sports and quite as likely to get a ducking while romping in the breakers. This custom of holding at least one outing in the course of the year at which all meet on a common level is one that helps very much to efface the separating lines due to difference of position that must always exist in the management of large establishments. It helps to convince the lowest paid worker that he is an essential member of a great organization. That feeling of self importance helps in the long run in uniting all in one harmonious body, all imbued with a desire to work honestly and devotedly for the success of the firm, the business house or department store of whose force he is a member.

A friend connected with the business of selling picture-making apparatus and supplies tells me that the amateur photographer has come into his own again this year. During the war the photographic business was at a standstill. Possession of cameras found themselves hampered by the most rigid kind of restrictions. Snapping in public places even for the most innocent purposes, was practically prohibited. A photographer connected with a Boston newspaper discovered that it was not very profitable to undertake to make pictures promiscuously while on a trip to the Green Mountain state. He had been sent up there on the legitimate errand of securing pictures of scenes connected with a now event. He had no trouble, in so far as these particular pictures were concerned, for he took pains to inform the authorities in advance exactly what he wished to do. A little later he went into an adjoining town and the thought occurred to him that he would make some pictures that might come in handy sometime to illustrate a story on maple-sugar making. He had made a couple of innocent enough exposures when two men approached him. One connected his camera and the other snapped a pair of handcuffs on his wrists. He was promptly deposited in the nearest calaboose, charged with being a German spy, and it required some pretty strenuous telegraphic and explaining to get him out. Happily those days are past and the amateur camera owner can now snap pictures where and when he listeth.

AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENTS

While attempting to jump on the running board of an automobile owned by the park department and operated by Warren White in Central street late yesterday afternoon a boy, Thomas Gallagher by name, fell to the ground and received a severe cut on the head.

The automobile operated by William Kelleher of 53 Jefferson street, collided with a bicycle operated by Philippe Paradis of 115 Allen street on the Pawtucket bridge last evening. The bicycle was damaged and Paradis received Night injuries. He was taken to his home in Mr. Kelleher's machine.

The scarcity of farm labor should be helped as soon as some of these candidates are broken loose from their misalliance.

ANNUAL PARISH PICNIC AND FIELD DAY

Everything is in readiness for the annual parish picnic and field day of the Sacred Heart parish scheduled to be held on the parochial grounds, Moore street, next Saturday afternoon and evening.

Throughout the parish much interest is being manifested in the affair and the committees on arrangements are putting forward their very best efforts to make this year's reunion an event unique in the annals of the parish. The merry midway that has been such a delightful attraction in the past, will again be very much in evidence. Bordered on either side with tastefully decorated booths, presided over by the prettiest girls in the parish, a scene of rare loveliness meets the eye of the observer. The gladsome friendly spirit that permeates the atmosphere, as greetings are exchanged between old friends along the midway, lends a cheerfulness and congeniality to the occasion that has characterized this annual event as a delightful reunion and genuine "at home" of the Sacred Heart parishioners and their friends.

Space does not permit an enumeration of the many and varied attractions that will be seen along the midway, but all the thrills and activities so popularly identified with this annual event, will be there presented in assured form.

"Something new and entirely different" in the dodging line will be introduced which will doubtless prove a popular attraction.

An excellent program of athletic events has been arranged for the afternoon and it is expected that each number will be closely contested. Taken in its entirety, the day's program, as arranged, surpasses in excellence anything of its kind yet attempted by the parishioners of the Sacred Heart and that the efforts of the various committees will be successful, the increasing demand for tickets and the assured record-breaking attendance, bear eloquent testimony.

KEEP COAL FOR OWN USE

Head of British Miners Also Sees Need of Price Regulation

BY MILTON BRONNER, European Manager N.E.A.
LONDON, July 15.—England, suffering now from coal shortage and expecting to suffer still further when the famous British Miners' Federation begins its gigantic struggle soon for the nationalization of mines, has still some advantages over America, thinks Robert Smillie, president of the federation. I talked with Smillie today.

Embargo Needed
"America should place an embargo on coal," he told me, "so that domestic needs will be supplied first. Also it should have government regulations of coal prices."

"Britain also has exported coal at high prices but not at the cost of the domestic consumer who received coal at figures fixed by the government. The government would not dare and the public would not tolerate export that would deprive domestic consumers of the coal they needed."

"Furthermore, the British miners would refuse to work the mines if domestic consumers were penalized so that exporters could make huge profits out of Europe's needs."

Price Will Be High
"If America allows unlimited export at high prices, coal will be too high for many American industries, and that will throw many workmen from their jobs. Industries that could pay high prices for coal would pass that cost on to the consumer, once more increasing the cost of living."
"Finally," said Smillie, "speaking as a laborer to American labor, unlimited American export of coal to Europe would be used by British mine owners as an argument to beat down the demands of British miners."

YACHTING ARMADA IN LINE FOR RACE

SANDY HOOK, N. J., July 15.—A yachting armada gathered off the Hook today for the first America's cup race in 17 years.

Private craft, excursion boats and airplanes speeding southward across New York bay found tussling behind the great sand spit two sloops that are the pride of Britain and America—Shamrock IV, challenger, with sleek green sides and Resolute, defender, dazzling in her coat of white.

Aboard them were Captain William P. Burton and his crew of British tars and Captain Charles Francis Adams 2nd, of Boston, with his Yankee sailor men.

With the start set for noon from the Ambrose channel light vessel, the rival skippers conversed with their navigators regarding weather and wind conditions which would determine the course to be set them by the race committee.

Both skippers were hopeful of bringing the races to a quick and decisive close with three "straight" victories, but both were prepared to sail five races, and to start all over again another day if a race was declared off because the yachts failed to finish within the six hour limit.

Farmer-Labor Party Formed

with the committee of 48, met and considered placing their own ticket in the field under the 45 banner.

Not all of the forty-eight delegates withdrew from the fusion convention last night when some 100 or more returned to their own convention. Those who remained were rewarded by seeing Christensen, the chairman of their convention, selected to lead the fusion party while the labor leaders contented themselves with the election of their national chairman, Hayes, to second place.

Forty-eight leaders declined to say what effect this concession would have on their course when they met today. It was apparent that Christensen's nomination served to weld strongly the elements remaining in the convention. One report, in fact, was current that the dissatisfied forty-eighters would confine their activities today to organize anew for a purely educational movement.

J. A. H. Hopkins, national chairman of the forty-eighters, addressed the farmer labor meeting after reports became prevalent that a bolt had been determined upon by him and his friends and denied that such an agreement had been reached. He avoided saying, however, that none was in contemplation, and in statements issued for publication, criticized the dominant labor group for its handling of the amalgamation and declared a great opportunity had been missed.

Not all was harmony in the fusion convention during the hours the platform and candidates were under discussion. Heated debate developed also over the choice of a name for the new born political group. The forty-eighters carried their unsuccessful committee fight against the socialist doctrine of the radical laborites to the floor. Pursuing the same tactics they used throughout the platform discussion, they attempted to force their wishes across through the use of Senator La Follette's name.

An embryo stampede and a 45-minute demonstration for the Wisconsin senator resulted from the injection of this issue. But the well-laid plans were nullified by labor leaders, who blocked demands for an immediate consideration of a platform said to be satisfactory to La Follette, and which, it was claimed, had been concocted by "committee intrigue." The laborites got their platform before the convention first and, although a minority report, drawn along times said to be acceptable to the Wisconsin senator, was presented, the majority faction won.

Rumblings heard behind the scenes for two days burst upon the convention during the heated platform discussions with forty-eighters charging the fusion party with being "boss ridden" by a clique.

Amidst the uproar when delegates in every corner of the hall were clamoring to speak, Gilbert E. Roe, La Follette's personal representative, sent in word that Senator La Follette would not under any circumstances become the party nominee on the majority platform which was adopted soon afterward.

Removal of La Follette as an anchor for the less radical of the forty-eighters left them free to be shoved aside by the votes of the laborites and the latter's control was never again seriously questioned. They held the reins and the forty-eighters trailed along through the rest of the session, although once they tried to raise their voice in the proceedings and discourage adoption of the name "farmer-labor" as a party designation.

They contended without success that

Resolute's Skipper Has Sailed Ever Since He Could Toddle

BY DEAN SNIDER

There's a good man at the wheel of the America's cup defender.

Born to the sea 54 years ago, Charles Francis Adams has been making daring voyages ever since he could toddle around the wave-washed decks.

He got his inspiration from his father, John Quincy Adams, who used to take him on fishing trips just outside the Boston harbor in the little catboat, The Nettle.

For 15 years Adams has owned and sailed yachts.

One of his biggest assets is his calm and modest judgment and common sense. There are no better sportsmen than Adams in the game.

He has built and raced many canvas crafts, including the Rooster, the Hat and the Auk. His log book shows many victories in the international races with Germany and Spain, where he was always a prominent figure.

Manager Robert W. Emmons, 2nd, selected him to sail the Resolute in 1914. Adams sailed the Herreshoff yacht with a record of 23 victories.

Personally, his friends call him "Deacon." He is a short, stocky build. His eyes are a deep sea blue and he always has a smile for everyone.

The skipper has few other recreations except yachting. He belongs to all the prominent clubs of Boston.

Adams holds more jobs as director of financial companies than any other man in New England, one of them consisting of handling the millions belonging to Harvard, as treasurer and member of the corporation.

In 1914 the New York Yacht club elected him to its membership. Deacon Adams has a big responsibility ahead of him in his race against England's greatest sportsman, but the New York Yacht club is full of confidence with the seasoned veteran of the seas at the wheel of the Defender Resolute.

For Long expedition, succeeded in the attempt.

Major Long christened the mountain James peak but the pioneers and plainlanders persisted in giving it the name of its discoverer and Pike's Peak it has remained.

The history of tourist travel to this most famous spot of the Rockies has been that of the development of highway transportation. First came a bridle path, in 1875; two years later a wagon road was built and in 1891 a cog wheel railroad was constructed.

With the development of the automobile industry came the demand for a motor road and in 1916 the present motor highway, winding around the mountain in devious curves, with precipitous rock walls flush against the road on the one hand and deep ravines on the other, was completed at a cost of $300,000. It has an average grade of 7 per cent, and a maximum of 10 1/2 per cent. It was 20 feet wide except at the curves which were extended to 50 feet for the greater safety of the motorist.

Pike's Peak is eight miles in an air line from Colorado Springs and the greater part of the mountain is controlled by Colorado Springs to safeguard the city's water supply.

In April, 1919, a government war

tank attempted to climb the peak but was blocked by snow drifts. A month later a caterpillar tractor made the ascent.

Walking races, burro races, motorcycle and automobile races have been held on Pike's peak. The first airplane to cross the peak was flown over the mountain on August 3, 1919, piloted by Alexander Lendrum, of Colorado Springs.

The record for motor over the 12 miles from Crystal Creek to the summit is held by Ralph Mulford who made it in 15 minutes, 25 seconds.

Next September the automobile hill-climbing contest, discontinued during the war, will be resumed. An airplane race from Denver around Pike's Peak and return will feature the event.

can never sell it. This is in accordance with the plan of the fund to nationalize the land in Palestine and eliminate land speculation as announced here by Dr. Baer Epstein, the fund's special commissioner, who has just arrived from England.

The fund, he said, will spend $1,250,000 during the next year for the purchase of barren land which must be reclaimed and made fit for settlement by Jewish renters.

More than 7,000,000 French francs Dr. Epstein added, have already been spent in buying and cultivating 6000 acres of what now is fertile Palestine land and in developing six agricultural colonies and a dozen individual farms.

CLIMBED PIKE'S PEAK 100 YEARS AGO

COLORADO SPRING, Colo., July 14.—One hundred years ago today Dr. Frank James astonished the world by climbing to the top of Pike's Peak, 14,109 feet above the sea. Since that time 2,000,000 persons have made the trip and today Colorado Springs is celebrating the anniversary with ceremonies all along the 15-mile serpentine automobile highway to the summit.

Lieutenant Zebulon M. Pike is credited with the discovery of the mountain in 1806. As hardy a pioneer as was the discoverer, he said the peak was inaccessible and none dared to doubt it until July 11, 1820, when Doctor James, a member of the Ma-

RHEUMATISM LEAVES YOU FOREVER

Deep Seated Uric Acid Deposits Are Dissolved and the Rheumatic Poison Starts to Leave the System Within Twenty-four Hours

Every druggist in this country is authorized to say to every rheumatic sufferer that if two bottles of Allenru, the sure conqueror of rheumatism, does not stop all agony, reduce swollen joints and do away with even the slightest twinge of rheumatic pain, he will gladly return your money without comment.

Allenru has been tried and tested for years, and really marvelous results have been accomplished in the most severe cases where the suffering and agony was intense and pitiable and where the patient was helpless.

Mr. James H. Allen, the discoverer of Allenru, who for many years suffered the tortures of acute rheumatism, desires all sufferers to know that he does not want a cent of anyone's money unless Allenru decisively conquers this worst of all diseases, and he has instructed Druggists, and Fred Howard, druggist, to guarantee it in every instance.—Adv.

Buy Options On German Marks Good for Six Months

The fact that German money is selling at a small fraction of its normal value should convince even the most skeptical that purchases for large profits. Exchange experts predict a sharp advance within the next few months.

100,000 MARKS CAN BE CONTROLLED FOR $400.00

Buying options limits your risk as the original cost constitutes your entire liability. The cost of an option involves the use of about one-sixth as much money as would be required to buy marks outright. Should the marks rise or option advance to only one-half normal value the returns on 10,000 would be over $200.00.

Send remittance, stating number of marks you wish to option at above rates. We are prompt action as exchange fluctuates rapidly. Send for explanatory circular.

Sure relief

The sufferer from indigestion, dyspepsia, and biliousness, needs no warning to avoid the many worthless, so-called "cures" that are offered, often containing harmful drugs. In vain, these various preparations have been tried, frequently leaving the system weaker than before. The true "L.F." Atwood's Medicine brings quick relief without the risk of injurious after-effects. Instead of a temporary improvement, at the expense of weakening some vital organ, it helps the entire digestive apparatus, tones the stomach, and establishes a general healthy condition. Taken regularly, the physical improvement which will result, will also overcome the fear of a new attack. "L.F." can be given with perfect safety to every member of the family. It has been a family health-restorer for 50 years; its friends are steadfast. You can buy a large bottle (60 teaspoonful doses) from your druggist for 50 cents. "L.F." Medicine Co., Portland, Maine.

White Flannel for Bathing Suit—And Over Short
Bloomers, Too

BY CORA MOORE

NEW YORK, July 14.—Water sports are not losing any of their lure because of the bathing costumes fashion has turned out.

LORD AND LADY MICHELHAM

then the sick nobleman, dying and unconscious, signed a paper which decided away part of his fortune. Remember how you always said such things didn't really happen?

But they do.
A British high court has just ordered a paper of that kind delivered up to the officials so it can be cancelled as null and void.

Deadly Her Fortune
The late Lord Michelham, a very wealthy man, lay dying in January, 1919. While in that condition it was said he signed a paper agreeing to the marriage of his son, and also making a settlement upon his prospective daughter-in-law, whereby she would have an annual income of about $100,000 for life.

The lawyers stated the present Lord and Lady Michelham, however, were not directly interested in the outcome of the case, as Lady Michelham had given up all rights under the deed. Suit was brought to cancel the deed solely so the executors might proceed with settlement of the estate.

The attorneys for the executors claimed the late Lord Michelham was ignorant that his son was contemplating matrimony and that on the night the deed was placed before him, he was unconscious and incapable of recognizing people about him. Nurses testified to his condition.

Hand Wiped Gained
However, one witness said the sick man was asked whether he wished to sign the document, that he replied "Yes" and that his hand was then guided while he signed.

The court held the testimony was ample to show the man was incapable of understanding the document or what he was doing. Hence it was no good.

WILL ACQUIRE HUGE TIMBER LAND TRACT

BANGOR, Me., July 15.—A tract of 100,000 acres of timber lands on the upper St. John waters owned by the Eaton estate of Calais, will pass to the Allegash Land Co., a corporation which was organized in this city today to take over an option on the holdings held by E. B. Draper, who recently took over an extensive tract of the Eaton timber lands on the St. Croix waters, and who is heavily interested in timberlands in this state and in New Brunswick. The capital stock of the Allegash Co. is $500,000 and E. C. Ryder is the president.

MORE RECRUITS FOR NAVAL SERVICE

Edward F. Curry, 131 High street, an ex-soldier, enlisted as a blacksmith; Frederick B. Brauer, 49 Pleasant street, Lawrence, enlisted as an apprentice seaman for the minority cruise, and Walter Detelle, 1153 Lakeview avenue, enlisted as an electrician. They were forwarded to Boston this morning as recruits for the naval service.

As soon as Chief Joseph Crepeau of the local navy station receives permission from the local street commissioner for use of the sidewalk in front of the Central street office for the exhibition of a modern submarine torpedo, a huge torpedo will be shipped from Boston. This exhibition will be used as an attraction for naval recruiting.

SHE'S FIGHTING FOR SUFFRAGE

ATLANTA, Ga., July 15.—Single-handed, Mrs. Anne C. Neely, national organizer for the national woman's party is trying to get the Georgia legislature to ratify the woman suffrage amendment. Many Atlanta women, though strong for suffrage, have refused to help because lobbying for suffrage is too unpopular in Georgia. Mrs. Neely is at present trying to get through an enabling act so Georgia women can vote in November. To make this possible the legislature will have to pass a law exempting women from the provision of the election law which requires registration six months in advance.

MANY LOWELL PEOPLE ON OUTINGS TODAY
With the closing of nearly all the stores, Lowell's business section was exceptionally quiet today. All the large department stores and practically all of the smaller ones had either organized outings to various resorts or were closed for the day.

Employees of the large department stores boarded electric cars and automobiles for Revere Nantasket or Bass Point. The drugists of the city closed their stores at 10 o'clock and left Paige street in 12 touring cars and one truck for Bass Point, where they were joined by employees of the C. B. Coburn company.

It is not known at this time how seriously the rain interfered with the picnickers' day of pleasure.

Municipal Swimming Pool Haven of Enjoyment For Old and Young on Sweltering Summer Days

SCENE AT MUNICIPAL BATHING POOL OFF PAWTUCKET BOULEVARD

New Bath House on Boulevard Scene of Warm Weather Pleasure— Three Experienced Life Guards Constantly on Duty—Attendance Records Broken This Week—Local Bathing Resort Splendid Sub- stitute for Seashore

Pack up your swimming togs, Mr. Man, you who are suffering so much from these sultry July days, take the youngsters by the hand and make a bee-line for the new municipal bath house and swimming pool off the Pawtucket boulevard, if you want the most blessed relief from the devilish onslaughts of the weather man that this town has provided in many a day.

Popularity is the middle name of the bath house and swimming pool area and the hundreds of kiddos and grown-ups who have taken advantage of the pool since it opened a month ago are said to be formulating a petition to ask the municipal authorities to change the name of the boulevard to Pleasure street, so many avenues of happiness lead from it to the swimming pool.

Just squint at the accompanying picture if you want photographic evidence of the high esteem in which the city's bathing pool is held by old and young. No, sir, the picture was not taken at Hampton or Revere or any of the older resorts; it was snapped this very week at the boulevard beach. And the special camera which did the work has an enviable reputation for veracity.

The swimming pool is doing a regular fire sale business this week. The long stretch of warm weather has driven hundreds to seek relief in the cool, clear water of the Merrimack and with the attractive conveniences afforded at the bath house there is every inducement to enjoy one's stay in the water whether it be a five-minute plunge or an intermittent sojourn, lasting the greater part of an afternoon or evening.

It is estimated by the life guards and other officials in attendance at the bath house that the daily average attendance at the pool is in the neighborhood of 1000. Within the past two weeks it has been much higher than that but the figures for this period are offset by a comparatively meagre attendance during the first week of the bath house's operations when the weather was cold and stormy.

On Sunday last all records were broken. Fully 30,000 people either were in the water or watched bathers from the sandy beach which lines the shore. There are 420 bathing suits of one description or another available at the bath house and every one of these was in use Sunday, while hundreds of other bathers brought their own suits. The bathers willingly shared locker accommodations with others. It is estimated that 60 per cent of those who visit the pool bring their own suits.

The bathing pool is in constant use on a warm day from the early hours of the morning until late at night, although the bath house itself is open only from 11 a. m. until 9 p. m. Few serious accidents have been reported in the month that the bath house has been open but hardly a day passes that the three young men officiating as life guards are not called upon to assist bathers who are suffering from minor ills or injuries. At all times they have met whatever demands were made upon them. A first aid kit has been installed in the bath house and through the courtesy of Mayor Perry D. Thompson one of the police department live-saving boats has been transferred to the bath house ready for any emergency. It has also proved a great source of pleasure to the youngsters who patronize the pool. However, the boat is never allowed to leave shore unless it is bearing an experienced swimmer.

A large raft anchored some distance from shore is another source of unending pleasure for the bathers at the pool. It has become a favorite destination for swimmers who have reached that stage of proficiency where they can swim several hundred yards without difficulty.

The Life Guards
Three veterans of the world war, all experienced and tried swimmers, are the life guards at the municipal pool. A brief sketch of each of them may be of interest to those who visit the pool.

Daniel P. Brennan, who has general charge of the bath house, is a veteran of Co. M of the old Ninth Regiment which became part of the 101st in the world war. Brennan served on the Mexican border in 1916 and in March, 1917, responded to the call of the president as a private in the summer of 1917 and rapidly made his way upward until he returned to Lowell as a Lieutenant and the only Lowell officer of the unit. He was discharged in May, 1919.

Brennan is 25 years old and has been in the swimming game since he was a youngster. He has also been prominent in baseball, basketball and other sports.

James P. Liston, another life guard, is well known to followers of local athletics. Liston is a product of Revere and is 22 years old in October and is a naval veteran of the world war. He served at Bumpkin Island from August 8 to Dec. 31, 1918. He is a graduate of the Lowell high school and was one of the best centers that the local institution ever had.

Liston is at present a student at Lehigh university and has already won honors in swimming and football at the Pennsylvania institution. He has played ball on many local amateur teams, including the South Ends, and is a prominent member of the Y.M.C.A.

Louis J. Turner, the third life guard, served 20 months with a mining squadron of the U. S. navy, 11 months of which were spent in the North sea. He entered the service the day after war was declared and was discharged in August, 1919. He was born in Lynn, but has lived here practically all his life and has been prominent in athletics, having played football with the Indians and baseball with the n. e. representing the ship on which he served in the navy. Turner will be 22 years old next month.

These three men were appointed life guards only after they had taken a civil service examination at the L street baths in Boston and had passed successfully out of a class of 48. They were not only certified as competent for the work by the civil service commission, but were recommended by the American Legion and the employment bureau of the Community Service club.

Patrolman John Lynch, assigned to duty at the bath house, has been of great assistance to the life guards in keeping "law and order" and in preventing accidents. Lynch himself is an athlete of no mean ability. Traffic Officer Charles Hamilton also visits the bath house regularly when there are large crowds and danger of children being run over when crossing the boulevard to the opposite side of the boulevard.

Every effort has been made by the park commission authorities to keep the bath house in a spotless and sanitary condition. It is thoroughly cleaned every day and every bathing suit is laundered, steamed and sterilized by a local laundry as soon as it is taken off. In fact, every precaution has been taken to make Lowell's municipal swimming pool a safe and pleasant place for men, women and children to bathe and in the month that it has been in operation this season, there has been abundant indication that the authorities are meeting with success in their efforts.

If full page advertisements with glaring type announcing big mark downs—on paper—suit your taste you can find plenty these days on goods that were marked too high to begin with or on bargain counter trash that's mighty expensive at any price.

For about a month the papers have been crowded with big type announcements of Clothing Sales, each dealer trying to outdo the others, some selling goods at half price or less, others suffering tremendous losses, and a few would lead you to believe they were giving merchandise away.

We have been in the clothing business for twenty-seven years and have never yet been able to discover a method by which we could continue in business without making enough profit over the cost of goods to pay expenses—And we are yet to be convinced that it can be done—That's why some two months ago we inaugurated this great campaign to break high prices by selling Men's, Women's and Boys'

The result of this method of doing business is that, despite the noise of the merry battle of the would-be philanthropists we have enjoyed the largest spring business in our entire history and until further notice, we will continue selling you your clothes at cost, plus expenses, which brings the prices down to the lowest possible mark.

Resolute Withdraws From Race

Defender Forced Out of First Cup Race When Mainsail Supports Part and Render Her Sailless

Resolute Was on Way Home and in Lead by Half Mile When Accident Occurred—Capt. Adams Sends Crew Aloft in Unsuccessful Attempt to Make Sloop Seaworthy

SANDY HOOK, N. J., July 15.—Shamrock IV, challenger for the America's cup, kept on for the finish in the first race of the 1920 series after Resolute had withdrawn because of broken halyards. If the challenger does not herself withdraw and she finishes within the six hour time limit, she will be today's victor.

Resolute parted her throat halyards which support her mainsail while leading Shamrock IV by about half a mile to the turning point. Although the gaff slipped half way down the mast, her skipper, Charles Francis Adams, kept on sailing.

Resolute turned the outer mark at 2:57.54, and headed back for the finish, a run of 15 miles, with her two headsails drawing and her club topsails swinging helplessly. Her crew meanwhile made every effort to replace the broken rope.

Turning the mark at 3:57.39, Shamrock passed the almost sailless Resolute at 3 o'clock.

Shamrock overtook the mark and was around with a wide berth as she slipped past her rival.

Shamrock made no effort to set her spinnaker, as both yachts headed for the finish. Capt. Adams sent two men aloft on the Resolute to rig new halyards.

RESOLUTE OFF TO AN EXCELLENT START

SANDY HOOK, N. J., July 15.—Resolute led Shamrock across the starting line today in the first America's cup race of 1920.

The Resolute crossed at 12:01.50 and Shamrock at 12:02:48, unofficial time. From the shore it was apparent that Shamrock had made a poor start, not crossing the line until after the hand-drawn whistle had been blown at 12:02 o'clock. The yachts crossed the line on the starboard tack.

WILD-CAT INVESTMENTS

Lowell Hunting Ground for Dealers in Seductive Investment Enterprises

Lowell is being made a happy hunting ground for dealers in highly speculative investment enterprises, according to statements of leading bankers and representatives of houses handling safe and reliable securities. The salesman for one of these enterprises, it is alleged, has just begun work in Lowell. His proposition involves transactions made through the instrumentality of the postoffice department, and which, while they are said to be strictly within the letter of the law, the government is trying to discourage.

Under the laws governing the postal union, of which the United States and most other civilized countries are members, it is possible to buy what are called return postage certificates. The rate of exchange at which these certificates are sold is not that which exists at the present time, but was arbitrarily fixed by law at the last international postal congress.

The way in which money is made through the agency of these certificates is as follows: A dealer in this country sends a representative to some foreign country with funds to buy the return postage certificates. A certificate is purchased in Holland, for instance, that entitles the holder to a certain amount of United States postage stamps. There is a nominal charge for issuing the certificate. When the certificate reaches this country it is redeemed in stamps which are later sold at a slight discount to business men. The profit comes from the difference in the value of the dollar as established by law and its real value today in foreign exchanges. In some cases the profit is said to have been as much as 15 per cent.

Vast sums of money are said to have been made by dealers in the postal certificates. One dealer in Boston is said to have cleaned up over a million in little over a year. It is this Boston dealer who now has a salesman in Lowell attempting to interest local investors. The proposition that he offers appears to be very attractive. For an investment of say $500 he offers the promissory note of the Boston dealer, who has a good financial rating, for $750 payable in three months. The money obtained from the sale of these notes, it is claimed, is to be used to finance the purchase of postal certificates.

The halt of 50 per cent interest for the use of money for three months, held out by a concern that is engaged in a business that the government has found no way of stopping, and that it is claimed is likely to prove profitable until some change is made in the rules of the postal union, it is said is proved.

Tadeusz P. Kusiak, charged with operating his automobile on the Princeton boulevard on July 5 in such a manner as to endanger the lives and safety of the public, pleaded guilty in police court this morning and was ordered to pay a fine of $50.

After passing about 10 other machines he caught the defendant, who told him that he was in a hurry and offered to pay $100 spot cash for his release. The final obstacle to the construction of a new reinforced concrete bridge over the Concord river in Lawrence street, a project which has been hanging fire for a year or more and which at one time threatened to result in the abandonment of street car service for residents of that section of the city, was removed this morning when the municipal council voted to approve a contract between the city and Frederick P. Meloy for the furnishing of labor and materials for the erection of the structure. The amount involved is $69,782 with not more than $400 additional for extra work.

FARMER-LABOR PARTY FORMED

Accepts Platform and Has Candidates in Field for Coming Election

La Follette Refuses to Have Name Considered—All is Not Harmony Yet

CHICAGO, July 15.—The farmer-labor party, born of a fusion of numerous political groups, today has a platform and has its new candidates in the field for the coming election. Its work was completed at 4 o'clock this morning when its convention, after an all day and night session chose Parley Parker Christenson, Salt Lake City attorney, and Max S. Hayes, Cleveland labor leader, as its presidential and vice presidential nominees respectively.

But the strength of the new movement remains to be seen. The first test came today when a group of dissatisfied delegates, formerly allied

FIRST STREET HIGHWAY

Mayor Thompson Fears Work Will Not Be Resumed This Year

There is a very serious possibility that work on the new highway and playground in First street, a project which has been either hanging fire or experiencing only intermittent progress for the past several years, will not be resumed this year, according to the opinion of Mayor Perry D. Thompson. At the most, he looks for only a short period of rough work in the fall, he said today.

The story of the First street highway is long and involved. The city had let a contract last year to the West Roxbury Trap Rock Co. to do the municipality's share of the work in collaboration with the county and state. This company put in a lot of time and made considerable progress, but last spring the state department of public utilities hit upon the idea of having the line of the Merrimack river along the proposed highway definitely established and the city authorities agreed to this.

It was suggested then that the West Roxbury company be released from its contract until the line should be established and this was done. Since then the work has been at a standstill as far as the local end of it has been concerned, although men from the state department have been working on the river line. As yet they have made no report to either Commissioner Donald A. Murphy or Mayor Thompson.

With these facts in view and the knowledge that new bids will have to be called for to finish the work, it is doubtful if much actual construction will be done this year. The mayor believes that if the river line is established before the cold weather comes on, Commissioner Murphy might send a gang of his men to the job to do the rough work and then have a contractor take over the job in the spring. Should the local street department be unable to get materials to carry on its usual work in the fall, the mayor says that this would be an excellent way in which to keep the department's force employed. But for the present the First street highway is practically a dead letter.

Severe Electrical Storm Breaks Over This City Tying Up Traffic and Telephone Service

ALARM SOUNDED FOR TWO FIRES

C. M. A. C. Clubhouse Struck by Lightning—Street Car Hit

Telephone Manager Says Storm Worst in History of Company

Taking full and vigorous advantage of the tradition that a storm on St. Swithin's day, July 15, indicates rain for 40 days to follow, the weather man after an extended period of humid sulking, let forth early this afternoon one of the most severe electrical storms in the history of the city, crippling 800 telephone lines; causing several fires, stalling traffic and generally disrupting the mid-day activities of the community.

The storm centered over the city at 12:20 and for the next half-hour pelled with a ferocity that drove everybody to cover. Lightning of a most vivid series of designs flashed over the community incessantly accompanied by reverberating claps of thunder.

The most serious fire caused by the storm was at the C.M.A.C. clubhouse at Pawtucket and Merrimack streets where a stroke of lightning hit the two-story wooden structure in the rear and sent flames shooting from the basement to the blind attic.

The fire was discovered by Joseph L. Crowe, a member of the fire department, who happened to be passing the building. Immediately he attempted to sound an alarm from box 132 in front of the building, but it failed to work and after an unsuccessful attempt at another alarm box, he sent in a telephone alarm and the apparatus responded at once. The flames had secured a foothold in the partitions in the rear of the building and caused the firemen more or less difficulty. However, after a brief fight they were extinguished and the damage is estimated at only a few hundred dollars.

Telephones Are Crippled

Today's storm was the worst that Manager Charles J. Leathers of the local exchange of the New England Telephone and Telegraph Co. has experienced in the 15 years he has directed the local affairs of the company, he

Hastens to Acquiesce on Coal Supply Question When Pushed

Ultimatum Would Have Been Sent if Compliance Had Not Come

SPA, Belgium, July 15 (By Associated Press).—The Germans have agreed to the allied demand for delivery of 2,000,000 tons of coal monthly with three new conditions, it is announced.

The German acceptance was embodied in a note which was laid before the allied premiers this noon by Premier Lloyd George. The conditions were these:

First.—The German government to have the distribution of the Silesian coal, or be allotted 1,500,000 tons monthly for northern Germany, instead of the present allotment of 1,200,000 tons.

Second.—A mixed commission to be sent to Essen to examine food and housing conditions.

Third.—The allies are asked to advance money or provide credit for importing additional food for the entire German population.

Foreign Minister Simons sent word to Premier Lloyd George about an hour before the allied representatives met today that Germany would accede to the allied demand and that a written note would be forwarded immediately. The foreign minister said that by this means he wished to prevent the allies from forwarding the proposed ultimatum to Germany. Consequently, although the allied ministers knew when they reached the Villa Farnesina at 11 o'clock, that Germany had yielded, they did not know of the conditions laid down until within a few moments of the noon hour.

Note of Acceptance

The German acceptance was embodied in a note which was laid before the allied premiers this noon by Premier Lloyd George.

STORM DISABLES ELECTRIC CARS

Six electric cars were disabled this noon during the storm and on the Varnum avenue and Bridge street routes there was considerable delay caused by sand being washed on to the tracks. Track men were dispatched to Bridge street at Tenth and to Varnum avenue to clear them. Another Lakeview avenue car was disabled by water which rose to depths of three feet in some of the lowest parts of the track bed along that route. In each case the cars had one or more motors disabled.

One of the men was slightly cut about the face and hands, while the other escaped unharmed.

DAFFODIL SIGNIFIES UNREQUITTED LOVE

If your sweetheart sends you Jonquilla, his message is "I desire a return of affection." But beware of giving him daffodils unless you really do not love him, because they signify unrequited affection.

Called Golden Bowl

The Turks call the daffodil the golden bowl, and in China it is known as shin shu fa, which means water fairy flower. Homer refers to this flower as an emblem of deceitfulness, because, while it delights with its beauty, it is believed in ancient times that the odor produced stupor and sometimes death.
The daffodil also has its place in Greek mythology. Pluto, king of the infernal regions, one day saw Prosperpina and immediately determined to marry her. He knew, however, that Ceres, goddess of agriculture, would never allow her daughter to accompany him to the underworld.

Venus Created Daffodils

One day Prosperpina was gathering flowers while her mother rested on the shores of a beautiful lake. Pluto, with the help of Venus, decided to entice Prosperpina away. So the goddess of love caused lovely flowers to spring up just ahead of the girl. Pluto suddenly caught Prosperpina and carried her off. Ceres did not hear the screams of her daughter because the heavy perfume of the daffodils, which Venus had caused to spring up, had dulled her senses.

AUTO OPERATORS LOSE LICENSES

(Special to The Sun)
STATE HOUSE, Boston, July 15.—Frank D. Greene of East Chelmsford, has been notified that his license to operate motor vehicles in this state has been revoked, and that he will not be permitted to drive any motor vehicle in the future.

This action was taken by Frank A. Goodwin, registrar of motor vehicles, after learning of Greene's conviction in the Lowell court June 22 on a charge of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicating liquor. He was sentenced to serve one month in the house of correction, but appealed. Unless the superior court should reverse the decision of the Lowell justice, Greene will be permanently barred from Massachusetts highways. If he is freed in the superior court, it will then be discretionary with the registrar as to whether his license will be reinstated.

Convictions in the Lowell court have also had the effect of barring three other men from Massachusetts highways, one living in Waverley and the others in New Hampshire.

George H. O'Brien of Waverley was convicted June 22 on a charge of operating while under the influence of liquor; Gataf A. Nylen of Concord, N. H., convicted June 30 on a charge of going away after knowingly causing injury to property, and John Karaglanis of Manchester, N. H., was convicted June 22 on a charge of operating a motor vehicle in such manner that the lives and safety of the public might be endangered.

IN SERIOUS CONDITION

Bertha Moskowitz, aged 6 years of 22 Daly street, who late yesterday afternoon fell from the piazza of her home and sustained what is believed to be a fracture of the skull, is in a serious condition at St. John's hospital, where little hope is being entertained for her recovery. Just how the accident occurred is not known, but it is believed the child climbed on the rail and lost her balance, falling to the ground several feet below. The ambulance removed her to the hospital and today an X-ray picture of her injuries will be taken.

RESOLUTE VS. SHAMROCK III

Sir Thomas Optimistic as Starting Hour of First Race Drew Near

Crews of Challenger and Defender Early Astir to Spread Canvas

Sir Thomas Lipton, making his fourth attempt to lift the bottomless power mug, emblem of sailing supremacy of the sea, cast his eye to weather and remarked: "If the wind will hold its present strength, I'll ask nothing better for my Irish challenger. The Shamrock IV is a fine boat and I hope to win."

A gentle rain fell in the night and with clearing weather an even whole sail breeze sprang up from the south-west that held true through the morning hours.

Weather sharps said the breeze would haul more into the west by noon, which would give the sloop a 15-mile beat to windward down the Jersey coast and a run home.

There was a gentle swell to the sea and the red-hulled Ambrose channel light vessel, where the yachts were to make the start, swung lazily on her anchor chains. Not a crested wave was to be seen.

Captain Burton had his crew up with the sun and before 6 o'clock a host of sailors was on its way from the tender Killarney to the challenger to remove sail covers and send headsails up with stops.

"My opinion is that the first hour of today's race will tell the story of the America's cup contest," said the Shamrock's skipper. "He will then know what each sloop can do."

Skipper Adams also had the Resolute's crew early astir and ready to make sails. Covers were removed from the defender's mainsail and headsails slowly edged their way up the stays.

"We should have no complaint to make of this weather," said Captain Adams, "and I believe Resolute will give a good account of herself." Then he added: "Sir Thomas' ship should make it interesting."

The day broke hot and humid. The sun burned out the off shore haze and poured its rays down upon the spectators who occupied coigns of vantage on the highlands to witness the contest.

The breeze was still holding directly out of the southwest at 9 o'clock at 10 knots and lumberhuckers off shore stood alone on the southward on the starboard tack, making good time which presaged a fast race for their lighter sisters, the cup yacht sloops.

Sailing conditions, provided for a preparatory signal at 11:45, wind and weather permitting, and a warning signal 10 minutes later. The starting signal was set for 12 o'clock with a handicap time to be taken two minutes later.

The American cook on Sir Thomas' steam yacht Victoria was not dismayed by shamrocks from Ireland stored in the hold of the challenger for good luck.

"That won't help any," he said as he wagered a five dollar bill with Sir Thomas' valet, who put up a pair of his employer's cast-off trousers.

Captain Burton planned to carry a smaller club topsail today and reduce the heavy handicap which the Shamrock carries in allowing the Resolute a time allowance of seven minutes and one second in a 20-mile race.

This smaller topsail is expected to reduce the Resolute's time allowance to 6 minutes and 46 seconds. Shamrock must not only beat the American sloop but also accumulate such a time advantage over a 20-mile course as to nullify the big allowance given the Resolute because of her smaller sail and spar measurements.

Shamrock was the first to get up her mainsail which flapped from side to side in the freshening breeze. It was a fine piece of cloth and seemed visibly larger than Resolute's mainsail, which was hoisted shortly after.

The defender kited her largest club topsail, while the Irish sloop also sent up a club topsail of large area. The two racers swung unwillingly at their mooring buoys, awaiting a tow to the starting line.

The wind dropped out as the morning advanced and came in fitful puffs from the southwest, about six knots in strength. Gray clouds came out from behind the Jersey headlands, screening the sun and giving a constant threat of rain. Offshore the haze shut in thick and curtained the Ambrose light vessel from the shore observers.

Resolute, distaining a tow, broke out her headsails at 10:22 o'clock, cast off her mooring buoy and headed a broad beam and set a smoke screen away to the eastward for the starting line.

Shamrock followed her within less than a minute, breaking out her headsails and standing away toward the starting line, a half-mile or more astern of the American sloop. The wind was still light from the westward.

The race committee boat, the ocean tug Barrington, came up to the Ambrose lightship and took her position at the starting line at 10:15 o'clock. She was soon followed by a line of excursion craft, crowded with passengers, who lined the rails from stem to stern watching the two racing sloops as they slid easily through the water seaward in the light airs.

The ocean was as smooth as a millpond. Here and there, large soft spots were observed, evidence of the fitful breeze that sometimes blew eight knots in strength and then fell away to an "Irishman's hurricane" which is up and down the mainmast.

Hunting for vagrant winds was apparently not to the like of Captain Burton for on the way to the lightship he took a tow while Resolute moved on under her own sail.

Resolute slipped easily through the water under the command of Captain Adams, a descendant and namesake of a former ambassador to Great Britain and himself now treasurer of Harvard university.

The excursion fleet clustered around her headsails at 10:22 o'clock, cast off the starting line like minnows around from her mooring buoy and headed a that would have been the envy of any conveyer service.

The haze was so thick that spectators on shore could not see the light-

Cassed Soldier's Wonderful Letter

Woburn, Mass., July 9, 1920.

I returned home recently after serving nearly five years with the British army during the World War. During this period I served in the Dardanelles, Egypt, France, Belgium, and No. 10, Russia, had seventeen wounds and was gassed; and when I arrived home I was suffering from stomach trouble very badly which was caused by the gas. I tried everything I could think of, consulted physicians and a specialist, but no results. I happened to see an advertisement in the daily papers about Sister Mary's Compound and that their representative would be at Houghton & Dutton's store in Boston. I went there and saw the representative and he advised me to try Sister Mary's Compound, which I did. I cannot say that it has wholly cured me as I am only on the third bottle, but this I can say, that I certainly do feel much better; can eat lots of things that I had to previously refuse, and know that it will not take three more bottles of this wonderful compound before I am entirely better. Am coming along grand, and I owe it all to Sister Mary's Compound, and will certainly recommend it to those whom I know are suffering with stomach trouble.

ship and the sloops were last to view within three miles of the starting line.

The breeze was scarcely strong enough to stir the flags on the racing craft. Resolute reached the start at 11:15 but Shamrock was nearly half an hour later.

Decision by the race committee on a course southwest by south would carry the yachts from Ambrose lightship to a turning point a couple miles off Asbury Park. With the hoisting of the course signal, the mark boat Alleen Morse, under the command of Captain Blinn, steamed away to set the turning mark—a white boat carrying a red ball off the proper position 15 miles away.

The yachts moved at fair speed in the mild airs as they jockeyed for positions behind the starting line. The two sloops stood in shore on the port tack, with Resolute to windward. They came about and stood up on the line. At 11:55 the warning signal was blown, and a white ball was hoisted, and promptly at 12 the starting signal was sounded.

Resolute had gained the best position and slipped across at 12:09.40 while Shamrock was so slow in coming to the line that the handicap whistle had been blown before she reached the line and her official time across the line was 12:01.35. This gave Resolute the lead in the first leg of the first race and the Shamrock had a bad start.

Forging ahead on the starboard tack, the yachts carried mainsails, staysails, foresails and baby jib topsails. Three minutes after crossing the line Resolute tacked to port and headed toward the Jersey shore, while the challenger stood seaward on the starboard tack.

The advantage of the start lay directly with the American boat because of the faulty timing on the Lipton craft which resulted in her crossing the line a few seconds before the starting signal.

Shamrock, at 12:05 was apparently unable to catch Resolute. At 12:10 a rain squall drenched both yachts and nearly killed the breeze. Resolute pointed higher but Shamrock footed a trifle faster.

Mrs. Burton, wife of the Shamrock's skipper, the first woman ever to sail on a cup yacht, had been dis-signed to hold the time watch on the Shamrock. Whether she was on board to call the time of today's race was not known when the yachts started.

The rain squall hid the yachts from sight from shore a few minutes after the start. As the rain ceased falling the light southwestern breeze brought in a milky fog bank which completely concealed the course.

An Electrical Achievement—The Efficiency Electric Phonograph Drive

Phonograph manufacturers have felt the need of an electric drive for the past few years. Their demands have resulted in many attempts by the larger manufacturers themselves and others to produce an Electric Phonograph Drive that would fulfill all requirements.

But it remained for the Efficiency Electric Phonograph Drive (which, by the way, is manufactured right here in Lowell at the U. S. Cartridge Shop) to present itself to the phonograph manufacturers as a finished and complete electric drive that will positively stand up under all requirements.

It is simple, silent in operation, self lubricating, and needs no attention or adjustment. It will maintain constant speed, is operated from any ordinary 110 volt lighting circuit (direct or alternating current). It cannot overheat and is fully contained in a dust-proof case which is sealed at the factory.

CHALLENGER TOWERS OVER DEFENDER

excellent and they suit the Irish 250 square feet of canvas. The Shamrock, with her 10,500 square feet of sails, will be entitled to 42 or 43 men. The Resolute's crew will be less, since her canvas measures but 9,000 square feet.

Cost of Crews

It costs a small fortune to maintain yachting crews.

Sailors who formerly were paid $35 a month and $25 additional for board, now receive $100 per month with a ration allowance of $45. The Resolute's expense for her crew is estimated at $25,000. The Shamrock's sailors will cost even more.

The men are given extra prize moneys and bonuses for racing, which will add further to the upkeep of the enterprise.

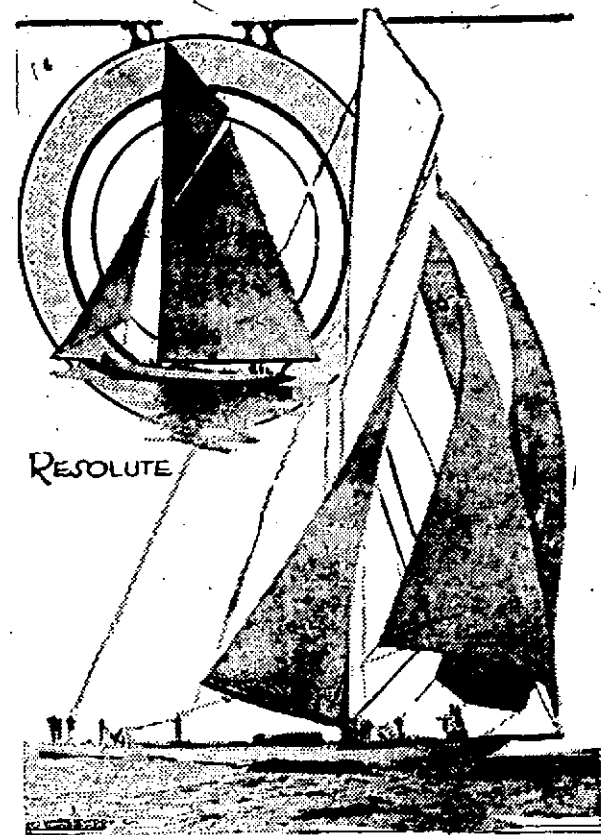

New Suits High

According to the present cup rules, a yacht is allowed one man for every

An idea of the amount of canvas in a yacht's suit of clothes can be gotten by comparison to an ordinary bed sheet. The standard bed sheet is 54 inches wide and 81 inches long. The canvas used on the Shamrock would make 355 sheets. It's heavy, too. Canvas in the mainsail alone weighs 1600 pounds.

It costs a lot to buy a yacht a new suit of clothes, too. A complete outfit would now cost around $75,000. So when one of the sails is ripped in the gales the repairs are expensive.

RESOLUTE THING OF GRACE AND BEAUTY

and this is almost constantly happening. Shamrock Towers

As to the yachts that are to figure in the 12th classic, the challenger looms up beside the defender. While they were on drydock in the Brooklyn navy yards for measurement, the contrast was especially noticeable.

The Resolute is a thing of beauty, with her graceful curve and streamlines. Yet it almost looks dwarfed beside the towering Shamrock.

Steel Mast

The hull of the American craft is built of manganese bronze plates riveted to nickel steel frames. These plates are 5.32 inches thick. The deck is of aluminum 7.33 inches thick, covered with canvas and sand to give the skippers a safe footing.

Her mast is of hollow steel. The topmast, club topsail spars and gaff are of wood, hollow. The mast measures 130 feet from deck to truck, the highest point. The boom is 77 feet, 6 inches long, and from the tip of the bowsprit to the fore side of the mast is 55 feet.

Wooden Mast

The Shamrock's mast is built of wood, hollow. From the deck to the truck it measures 143 feet. Above this the club topsail is set, which towers 25 feet further up in the air. Since the deck at the mast step is six feet above the water line, the end of the club topsail yard is 179 feet above the water.

This is the first time it has been required to measure the competing yachts. There are 600 separate measurements made, which are to be checked with those submitted by the designers.

$500 Cup

It is some job to pull off one of these yacht derbies. And the cup for which Lipton is spending a million to try to capture is valued at the paltry sum of about $500.

The famous Irish Ulster man says he doesn't want to win it on a fluke or accident. In case the Resolute is impaired by accident, he says he'll wait until she is repaired so he can win or lose in fair competition.

"Either you lick me or I lick you," he says.

An Aid to Wearing This Season's Fashions

(Helps to Beauty)

Here is a simple, unfailing way to rid the skin of objectionable hairs. With some powdered delatone and water make enough paste to cover the hairy surface, apply and in about two minutes rub off, wash the skin and every trace of hair has vanished. This is quite harmless, but to avoid disappointment be sure to get the delatone in an original package.—Adv.

Increase in Price of Milk

able advance in charges Aug. 1 is likely to be, but they hope that the prices raise that goes into effect next Sunday will be sufficient to cover any further advance that is made in costs three weeks hence.

There will be another season of price dickering the latter part of August, however, and a stiff advance in prices to the farmers is predicted. This, it is thought, is likely to make necessary another lift in local prices. How much the increase will probably be the local milkmen do not undertake to predict. Neither are any of them willing to say whether or not the price advance it made Sept. 1 will mar the end of the upward movement of charges.

Strongly Organized

The Lowell men who distribute milk say that one of the principal reasons why the farmers are able to demand and obtain higher prices for their milk is that in the New England Milk Producers' association they have a strong organization that it is able to very nearly enforce its own terms in making prices for the product of its members. It is claimed that the cost of producing milk is not greater today than it was a few months ago, and that, as a matter of fact, in the summer time the cost of keeping milk cattle is much lower than at any other time of the year.

The dealers assert that the cry that the farmers have made that they were being driven out of business because of their inability to obtain a price for their milk that would show a profit is not based upon facts. They say that the milk supply shows no signs of decreasing and that many farmers are constantly on the lookout for chances to buy cows and that they are showing a willingness to pay fancy prices for good milkers.

Figures obtained from Melvin P. Master, superintendent of the city's milk inspection department, seem to bear out the contention of the milkmen that there has been no recent decrease in the quantity of milk that is available for consumption. From figures compiled at the department it seems evident that approximately the quantity of milk being brought into Lowell every day at the present time is approximately the same as a year ago.

Show No Decrease

The statistics for the month of May, the last month for which the figures are available, show that 31,573 quarts of milk a day were brought into the city during the month. Of this quantity approximately 27,500 quarts came from towns in Massachusetts, about 600 quarts from New Hampshire, 3400 quarts from Maine and the rest from Vermont. Some of the milk from Vermont comes from as far north as St. Johnsbury while that from Maine is all shipped from Auburn. A large part of the milk used in Lowell is more than 48 hours old when it reaches the consumer. In addition to the milk, 2734 quarts of cream and 1740 quarts of skimmed milk were consumed in the city on an average each day during May. It is pointed out that Lowell people show a considerable fondness for buttermilk as a beverage, the daily consumption for May having been 1150 quarts. It is claimed by persons in a position to know that a very mild alcoholic beverage can be produced by the manipulation of buttermilk.

Although accurate figures are not available, Mr. Master, of the milk department of the city, states that he believes that the consumption of milk at the present time is slightly greater than in May.

Although the prices for the lacteal fluid are going up, the milk delivered in the city, according to the results of the inspections made by the milk department, shows a falling off in quality as represented by the total solids and butter fat contents. These have fallen below the standard required by law this month as they did for a short time in June. According to Mr. Master this does not indicate that the producers are overworking the farm pumps, but that such a drop in quality is to be expected in the summer when the cattle are out at pasture or are fed green hay and the owners attempt to sidestep heavy grain bills. The summer food contains more moisture than that ordinarily fed in winter and this results in inferior milk. The city milk department is constantly on the trail of producers whose milk falls below normal. It is said that very little adulterated milk is being offered for sale in Lowell.

The Bottle Famine

The increased prices demanded by farmers are not the only sources of trouble for the local milkmen. They claim that they are faced with a bottle famine. In fact they say that one is very nearly now here. There is a milk bottle exchange in the city and each dealer is supposed to return to it bottles that come into his possession bearing the name of any other dealer. But few bottles have been returned lately. It is stated, and all of the dealers are following the policy of grabbing and keeping all the bottles that they can lay their hands upon.

The bottle shortage is said to be due to the failure of the railroads to transport supplies that have been ordered. Four carloads of bottles containing about 800 gross, that were ordered months ago are still lost somewhere on the way between the factory of the maker and this city. Realizing the seriousness of the situation a committee of the dealers from this city visited the office of the manufacturers in Boston a short time ago and an appeal was made to the authorities at Washington to hurry-up shipments. Thus far the appeal has failed to show any results.

The local milkmen have had the matter of making an appeal to consumers to use pitchers and pails for their milk instead of bottles under consideration, and it may be decided later to make such a request. Not only is there a shortage of bottles, but the caps that are used in sealing them have advanced in price over 300 per cent within a few months, and it is difficult to obtain a sufficient supply for daily use because of the transportation tie-up.

Milk Inspector Master says there

would be no bottle shortage in Lowell if people would hunt up all the milk bottles that they have in their possession and that have been diverted to uses other than those for which they were intended and turn them back into the common supply. It makes an appeal, through The Sun, to all milk consumers to at once collect all of the bottles that they can find and notify the bottle exchange or a milk dealer, who will see that they are promptly called for. For the benefit of housewives who are using milk bottles as preserve jars and other household purposes, attention is called to the fact that the law makes it a misdemeanor to utilize a milk bottle for any other purpose than that for which it was originally intended.

ARMY AIRPLANES OFF ON 9000-MILE TRIP

MINEOLA, N. Y., July 15.—Four army airplanes, comprising the Alaskan flying expedition, left Mitchell field at 12.33 this afternoon on a 9000 mile round trip flight to Nome, Alaska, probably the longest and most difficult air trip ever attempted in the western hemisphere.

The expedition, which is headed by Capt. St. Clair Street, United States air service, is expected to make the pioneer trip to Nome and return in approximately 45 days.

On reaching its Alaskan destination, the expedition will fly 100 miles to Cape Prince of Wales, which will bring it within 50 miles of the continent of Asia.

Haverhill Man Killed in Storm

HAVERHILL, July 15.—Milton Woodman, aged 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Woodman, 1977 Broadway, was struck by lightning and instantly killed this afternoon, during a terrific electrical storm. Irving Atwood of Liberty street, who was riding with the Woodman youth on a load of hay, was knocked down and one arm and leg were paralyzed. The hay burst into flames. Atwood, unable to move, screamed for help. Walter Canney of Liberty street, working in a field nearby, was knocked down but revived in time to come to Atwood's assistance.

WE ARE NOT GOING OUT OF BUSINESS

Since the inauguration of our 13th Anniversary Sale, last Friday, the question of whether we are going out of business has so repeatedly been put up to us that we thought it advisable to answer it publicly. We can hardly blame the people who so think, because such bargains as we are offering during this sale would naturally give people the impression that we are through. Such is not the case, however. We are good for a good many years, with God's help. This sale is merely a yearly event in which we use all our energies, trying always to make the following year better than the preceding one, and making it an event worth remembering. Profits are thrown to the winds, our only aim being to please the people first. Below we quote a few bargains that will fairly give an idea of what this sale means to those who want the most for their money.

COMMERCIAL AVIATION

Shows Healthy Growth Along Lines of Popularity, Says Aircraft Report

NEW YORK, July 15.—Commercial aviation in the United States shows a healthy, steadily growing popularity, says the Manufacturers' Aircraft Association in making public here today the report of representatives who have just completed a tour of the country which included inspection flights over most of the territory now served by aerial transport.

"The airplane is undergoing the same development experienced by other vehicles of transportation introduced to the public, the various sections of the country according to their individual topography, customs and natural resources," the report said.

"The southwest and Pacific coast are leading in the adoption of aircraft to commercial use and plans in preparation contemplate honeycombing

SAYS ONLY ONE SURE WAY TO END PILES FOREVER

Internal Treatment Gives Absolute Relief From All Pain and Suffering. Has Never Failed To Effect a Cure—Guaranteed

For years it has been proved that so-called external remedies applied to or inserted in the rectum cannot cure piles, and the best can only give temporary relief. Surgical operations also do not remove the cause, but simply effect the formation.

This wonderful prescription, known as Miro Pile Remedy, is so efficient in the treatment of piles, that even chronic cases of from 10 to 20 years standing with profuse bleeding have been completely cured in from three to ten days. Think of it! Just a few doses of a carefully balanced prescription and the most persistent case of piles is absorbed, never to return.

All pharmacists dispense Miro or can get it for you on short notice, and anyone who is disappointed with its use can have their money refunded.

IMPORTANT—What is known as itching piles are not piles in the true sense of the word, although this condition may accompany a true case of piles. For this condition Miro Pile Ointment has been prepared as in such cases it is not necessary to take the internal prescription. Fred Howard sells it on the money-back if dissatisfied plan.—Adv.

that area with a network of aerial transportation lines. In the middle west the airplane is being adopted as the occasion demands, and it is meeting with encouraging success the severe competition of good railroads and highways, lack of landing fields and the considerable indifference of the middle Atlantic states. New England is accepting it with customary conservatism; the south is using it mainly for private purposes and Florida and the West Indies have come to recognize flying as a most important method of communication.

"At present there are in the United States 15 manufacturers of aircraft and aircraft motors and 35 manufacturers of accessories. During the past few months 10 new airplane distributing agencies have been established throughout the country and new aerial transport operating companies have been formed in New York City, San Francisco, Long Beach, Hollywood, Los Angeles, Oakland, Stockton and Alameda, Cal., Minneapolis, Minn., Philadelphia, Bluefields, West Virginia, Bettendorf, and Shreveport, La., Ponca City, Okla., Seattle and Spokane, Wash., Detroit, Mich., Arkansas City, Ark., Bridgeport, Conn., Aurora, Ill., Fargo, S. D., Cincinnati, O., Newell, S. D., Birmingham, Ala., Asbury Park, N. J., Livingston, Vt., Brooklyn and Syracuse, N. Y., and Rahway, N. J.

"Aviators are convinced of the practicability of establishing passenger and express lines throughout the entire Pacific coast, which, roughly speaking, consists of two great mountain ranges and series of valleys. The plans for such lines, now in preparation contemplate connecting San Francisco with Los Angeles, San Francisco with Del Monte, San Francisco with Portland, Ore., over the Cascade range, and Portland with Tacoma and Seattle, Wash., with an almost certain extension of this line eastward to Spokane. A 10-passenger airplane service already is in operation between San Francisco and Los Angeles and a seaplane mail and package express line between Seattle and British Columbia points will begin operations within a few weeks.

"At present there are some 150 airplanes in commercial use in California and 50 more in Oregon and Washington, while a number equal to that of California are in operation in Texas. Most of the machines in Texas are privately operated by persons who made fortunes in oil, but contracts recently were let for aircraft to be used in transporting supplies between cities and the oil fields. oil companies desiring emergency supplies or the replacement of special tools have come to depend on the airplane which, with the level lands and natural landing fields of the country and the long distance over which the railroads are unable to make quick time, has provided an impetus to commercial adoption of the airplane in Texas.

"A score of flying boats are in operation on the Mississippi and other rivers of the middle west, and 15 on Lake Michigan, with every indication pointing to a substantial increase of the number before winter. Negotiations also are underway for 10 American-built flying boats of the recently produced 12 and 18-passenger type for use over the Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence river.

"Two companies that last winter operated a flying boat service from Florida to Bimini, Havana and Nassau, and carried more than 3000 passengers, are now employing between 10 and 15 machines in a fairly regular service between New York, Boston and Atlantic City. Both of these operating companies have been financially successful and have announced that they will double their equipment this winter."

SENATOR HARDING TALKS LA FOLLETTE REFUSES ON WOMAN SUFFRAGE

MARION, O., July 15.—Senator Harding in a statement last night presented what he characterized as "persistent misrepresentations" of the republican party's attitude toward woman suffrage and said to that party belonged the credit for the reform ever having a chance of success.

He deplored, however, efforts to make political capital out of the situation and said he hoped ratification would be accomplished before November, no matter whether a democratic or republican state was the 36th to approve the suffrage amendment.

"My patience is sorely tested sometimes over the persistent misrepresentations of the republican party, its state governors and legislatures, in this matter of woman suffrage," Senator Harding said. "Whether it emanates from mere mischief-makers or from partisan desires, I cannot help resenting it. We must insist on having fair treatment of the party without whose persistent support the great reform would never have had a chance of success."

"Whether in the senate or house, in congress or state legislatures, the record shows that the republicans have been the persistent and effective supporters of this measure. In such circumstances—circumstances that are thoroughly familiar to everybody—it is simply amazing that democratic managers should now have the audacity to be assuming that they are the friends on whom the cause must depend if it is to succeed."

"For myself, and for the republican party, I earnestly desire that ratification may be accomplished in time to give the whole body of American women the ballot in next November. I am wearied with efforts to make partisan advantage out of this situation. I hope there will be ratification and I do not care a fig whether it is secured through a republican or a democratic state."

BOLSHEVIKI CROSS VILIYA RIVER

LONDON, July 15.—Russian Bolshevik forces have forced their way across the Viliya river, in the province of Vilna, on the north, and have driven the Poles out of the city of Kamenetz-Podolsk on the southern end of the Polish front, according to an official statement issued at Moscow yesterday and received here by wireless.

West of Molodechno, northwest of Minsk, the soviet forces are approaching the positions held by the German armies during the Polish campaign of 1916, the statement says. In the regions of Baranovitchi and Slutsk, south of Minsk, the Bolshevik advance continues successfully. It is declared fierce resistance on the part of the Poles on the entire front between the Dubna and Dniester rivers, is taking place.

LA FOLLETTE REFUSES Declines to Head New Party

—Laborites Dominant in Platform Acceptance

CHICAGO, July 15.—The labor group was dominant when the new fusion party adopted a platform late yesterday in preparation for nomination of candidates at last night's session.

A minority report from the platform committee was sponsored by three of the five representatives of the committee of 48, but was defeated by a vote of slightly less than 3 to 1. The majority report was signed by the five labor members of the committee on resolutions and two of the party of 48's representatives. It was adopted by a big majority, which on motion was made unanimous.

Defections from the ranks of the new party began when it was shown that the minority report would be overwhelmingly defeated. James Ferguson, former governor of Texas, was the first openly to pull out of the meeting. He was followed by delegates from several states, none of whom was identified with the labor party.

A near stampede developed when an attempt was made to forestall introduction of the majority platform report by the submission to the convention of a report that was reputed to be acceptable to Senator Robert M. La Follette. The senator's friends launched the attack with a declaration that the convention was boss-ridden and clique-controlled and that the senator's own platform ideas had been hurried in secret committee meetings.

The storm broke with all the fury of a riot and La Follette delegates were quick to seize the psychological moment to spring their presidential boom. A big photograph of the senator, flag-draped, and a huge banner inscribed with his name were swung before the convention and the demonstration was on. It lasted about three-quarters of an hour.

Then a move was made to read the senator's platform, but it was blocked by the decision of the chairman, who ruled that the majority report of the committee on resolutions was before the convention and must be dealt with first. The La Follette platform was never brought up again, but the minority report, which was later defeated, was said by its supporters to be acceptable to the Wisconsin senate.

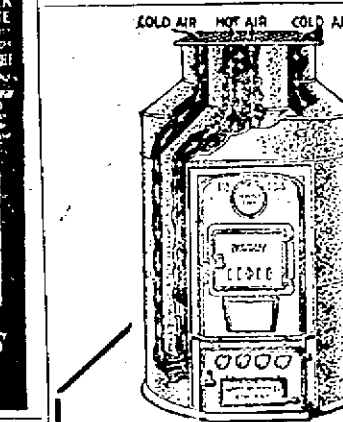

The statement of George L. Record, who presented the minority report, that, if it were adopted, Sen. La Follette would be willing to run on it, was challenged by Gilbert E. Roe, the senator's representative. Roe retorting previous announcements that La Follette did not desire the nomination

Cocoanut Oil Makes A Splendid Shampoo

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Multifold cocoanut oil shampoo, which is pure and entirely greaseless, is much better than anything else you can use for shampooing. As this can't possibly injure the hair, simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get Multifold cocoanut oil shampoo at most any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months.—Adv.

Cocoanut Oil Makes A Splendid Shampoo

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Multifold cocoanut oil shampoo, which is pure and entirely greaseless, is much better than anything else you can use for shampooing. As this can't possibly injure the hair, simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get Multifold cocoanut oil shampoo at most any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months.—Adv.

SENATOR HARDING TALKS LA FOLLETTE REFUSES

Declines to Head New Party

—Laborites Dominant in Platform Acceptance

CHICAGO, July 15.—The labor group was dominant when the new fusion party adopted a platform late yesterday in preparation for nomination of candidates at last night's session.

A minority report from the platform committee was sponsored by three of the five representatives of the committee of 48, but was defeated by a vote of slightly less than 3 to 1. The majority report was signed by the five labor members of the committee on resolutions and two of the party of 48's representatives. It was adopted by a big majority, which on motion was made unanimous.

Defections from the ranks of the new party began when it was shown that the minority report would be overwhelmingly defeated. James Ferguson, former governor of Texas, was the first openly to pull out of the meeting. He was followed by delegates from several states, none of whom was identified with the labor party.

A near stampede developed when an attempt was made to forestall introduction of the majority platform report by the submission to the convention of a report that was reputed to be acceptable to Senator Robert M. La Follette. The senator's friends launched the attack with a declaration that the convention was boss-ridden and clique-controlled and that the senator's own platform ideas had been hurried in secret committee meetings.

The storm broke with all the fury of a riot and La Follette delegates were quick to seize the psychological moment to spring their presidential boom. A big photograph of the senator, flag-draped, and a huge banner inscribed with his name were swung before the convention and the demonstration was on. It lasted about three-quarters of an hour.

Then a move was made to read the senator's platform, but it was blocked by the decision of the chairman, who ruled that the majority report of the committee on resolutions was before the convention and must be dealt with first. The La Follette platform was never brought up again, but the minority report, which was later defeated, was said by its supporters to be acceptable to the Wisconsin senate.

The statement of George L. Record, who presented the minority report, that, if it were adopted, Sen. La Follette would be willing to run on it, was challenged by Gilbert E. Roe, the senator's representative. Roe retorting previous announcements that La Follette did not desire the nomination

Mayor Perry D. Thompson persisted in his attitude shown at Tuesday's meeting when he said that he believed the cost of the bridge was too steep for the city to afford and that new bids should be called for. On the other hand, Commissioner Dennis A. Murphy urged immediate action so that the work may be started without delay. Accordingly, the vote of approval was passed, 4 to 1. Work will start on the structure within a week or 10 days.

Seating in Detail
Mayor Thompson called to order at 10.40. All members were present.

A petition from John J. Gookin for a sidewalk at 15 Aberdeen street was referred to Commissioner Murphy.

A favorable report from Commissioner Murphy on the petition of the High street church proprietors was ordered to remain in the city clerk's office for seven days before action is taken.

It was voted to pay to John B. Riley $146.25 in full settlement for injuries sustained on Jan. 2, 1920. Riley is an employee of the public property department. The expense is to be charged to the appropriation for workmen's compensation.

Bridge Contract Approved

Commissioner Murphy then introduced again a vote approving a contract between the city and Frederick F. Meloy for the construction of a reinforced concrete bridge over the Concord river in Lawrence street at the cost of $69,783.

Mr. Murphy said that he was in the same frame of mind relative to the matter as he was when it came up at Tuesday's meeting. He believed the contract should be approved at once.

Mayor Thompson, however, said he was still opposed to the approval of the contract as he believed a lower figure might be obtained by calling for new bids.

The roll was called and the contract approved by a vote of 4 to 1, the mayor alone being opposed.

The city auditor was instructed to issue a warrant upon the city treasurer for $220 for the purchase of postage stamps.

Adjourned at 10.50 a. m. until Tuesday next at 10 a. m.

THE RYNE HEARING

Clarence M. Ryne, chairman of the board of park commissioners, says that the reason Patrolman Michael F. Ryne was not given a hearing at the office of the park department yesterday noon was that on Saturday last Mr. Ryne and he made arrangements to have the hearing held Thursday noon—today. According to Chairman Ryne, Mr. Ryne evidently misunderstood the date of the appointment.

QUINCY JUMPS AHEAD

WASHINGTON, July 15.—Revised figures show Quincy, Mass., to have a population of 47,578 instead of 47,611 as previously announced today by the census bureau, or an increase of 255.

DON'T STAY RUN DOWN

If you have been indiscreet in eating, living habits, or your system taxed by overwork, and you have become all run down, don't stay that way. It is dangerous, as you are in a condition to take on many other more serious diseases. Build yourself up again by simply taking from 10 to 20 drops of SEVEN BARKS in a little water after each meal, and watch how quickly you will regain your normal health again.

People beyond the age of middle life cannot stand what they used to, and have to be more discreet in all of their modes of living. The majority of such people need to take occasionally a good stomach and liver regulator, for it is an indisputable fact that by keeping the liver active and digestive organs cleansed and in proper working order, old age can be deferred and life prolonged far beyond that enjoyed by the average person. To attain this there is no better remedy than SEVEN BARKS, which has for many years faithfully and successfully served the public.

If your system gets run-down, take warning, or you will be sorry when it is too late. Take plenty of exercise, fresh air, keep good hours, eat moderately of the right food, and tone up your stomach, liver and kidneys by taking SEVEN BARKS. For sale by druggists, 60 cents per bottle.—Adv.

CHILD SAVED BY MOTHER

Gertrude Lamarre, 6-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anselmo Lamarre, 59 Main street, Sanford, Me., was saved from the prompt action of her mother who administered Dr. True's Elixir.

Mrs. Lamarre wrote the following to Dr. J. P. True & Co.: "My daughter, Gertrude, had very severe and could not even go out for she always complained of being sick. She used your Elixir (Dr. True's Elixir, the Family Laxative and Worm Expeller). She never had any fits since. I feel very grateful to you."

MAYOR SAYS ANOTHER AUDIT UNNECESSARY

There will be no state audit of Lowell accounts this year, if Mayor Perry D. Thompson has his way, despite the fact that chapter 215 of the acts of 1920 stipulates that the books of every municipality in the commonwealth shall be audited by the state once every three years beginning this year.

However, Lowell has had her 1920 audit and the report of the same has been presented to the commissioner of finance, James E. Donnelly, by Everett A. Tarbox, who did the work. The mayor sees no reason why the city should be put to the extra expense of having a second audit in one year.

Theodore N. Waddell, state auditor of accounts, has written to the mayor, stating that the officials of his office are preparing to begin their work of auditing in the various cities of the commonwealth and would like to arrange a suitable time for the work to be done in Lowell. Mayor Thompson will turn the matter over to Commissioner Donnelly with the suggestion that the Lowell audit be delayed until next year.

LOCAL OBSERVANCE OF LABOR DAY

Lowell's Labor day observance this year will consist of a parade of labor organizations in the morning and a band concert and exercises on the South common in the evening, according to a communication received by Mayor Perry D. Thompson today from Lowell Trades and Labor council, inviting him to be one of the speakers at the evening exercises. The mayor will accept the invitation which was sent by the committee in charge of the day's observance, J. Frank Burke, chairman.

The best man was Mr. Arthur Turcotte. At the close of the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the groom, 31 Germain avenue and present at the festivities were guests from New York and New Jersey. After an extended wedding trip the couple will make their home in Connecticut.

DANIELS "BREAKS NEWS" TO ROOSEVELT

"This'll be no back-porch campaign," said Franklin D. Roosevelt, with a tone that resembled his illustrious cousin's, after he had accepted the nomination as vice-presidential candidate of the democrats. "We'll make a clean fight, straight from the shoulder, and we'll win." Roosevelt is assistant secretary of the navy, and it is fitting that his chief, Josephus Daniels, after praising him at the convention hall in a eulogistic speech, should be the one to break the news of his nomination to his young assistant. He did both with a deal of real affection and pride. The staff camera man for The Sun was on the job when Daniels drew up to the Bellevue hotel and snapped the two heads of the United States navy in a very proud moment of their lives.

LOCAL POLICE KNOW HELEN BOTTOMLEY

Miss Helen Bottomley, arrested in Boston on a larceny charge in connection with check transactions, it is alleged, has a police record in Lowell. It is asserted that she was employed in a Central street store in 1909, and at that time secured a commutation trip ticket, good for passage between Boston and Lowell, which she failed to return or make a proper accounting for. It is stated that she was taken before the late Judge Hadley, who placed her in the hands of Miss Emily Skilton. Later, after an examination by Dr. Benner, she was sent to the Worcester state hospital for observation. From there she was transferred to Westboro, the police assert. Later she was removed to Tecksbury. From there it is supposed she went to New York city. The young woman is said to have had a very attractive appearance when in Lowell.

DISCOUNT BANKING METHODS EXPLAINED

About a score of Lowell bankers and business men were present at a luncheon in St. Anne's parish house last evening at which the methods of discount banking were explained by representatives of the American Discount corporation, whose head offices are in Boston. The attendance was smaller than had been expected, due, it was explained, to the warm weather. It is expected that another similar meeting will be held later.

Some More Truths.

WOULD you use a steam shovel to move a pebble? Certainly not. Implements are built according to the work they have to do.

Would you use a grown-up's remedy for your baby's ills? Certainly not. Remedies are prepared according to the work THEY have to do.

All this is preliminary to reminding you that Fletcher's Castoria was sought out, found and is prepared solely as a remedy for Infants and Children. And let this be a warning against Substitutes, Counterfeits and the Just-as-good stuff that may be all right for you in all your strength, but dangerous for the little babe.

All the mother-love that lies within your heart cries out to you: Be true to Baby. And being true to Baby you will keep in the house remedies specially prepared for babies as you would a baby's food, hairbrush, toothbrush or sponge.

Children Cry For

Fletcher's CASTORIA

Are You Prepared?

A doctor in the house all the time would be a good idea. Yet you can't afford to keep a doctor in the family to keep baby well or prevent sickness. But you can do almost the same thing by having at hand a bottle of Fletcher's Castoria, because it is a wonderful remedy for indigestion, colic, feverishness, fretfulness and all the other disorders that result from common ailments that babies have.

Fletcher's Castoria is perfectly safe to use. It is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. Children cry for Fletcher's Castoria, and mothers recommend it because they have found it a comfort to children and a mother's friend.

If you love your baby, you know how sweet it is to be able to help baby when trouble comes. You cannot always call upon a doctor. But doctors have nothing but good to say of Fletcher's Castoria, because they know that it can only do good—that it can't do any harm—and they wouldn't want you to use for baby a remedy that you would use for yourself.

MOTHERS SHOULD READ THE BOOKLET THAT IS AROUND EVERY BOTTLE OF FLETCHER'S CASTORIA.

Seth T. Gano, associated with Lee, Higginson & Co. of Boston and a representative of the discount corporation, spoke of the discount system as being a handout of the banks and claimed that it liquidates frozen credits and increases facilities of doing business.

W. Robert Montgomery, credit manager of the corporation, explained the methods of discount banking. He said that the methods had been in successful use in England for many years and told of the way in which credit accounts of business men are purchased by bill of sale for 75 per cent of their face value, interest at the rate of 1 1/2 to 2 per cent a month being charged on the money advanced. port issued today by V. A. Sanders, field agent of the bureau of crop estimates of the United States department of agriculture. Acreage in the Aroostook region has been increased 15 per cent over last year and the rest of Maine shows an increase of 16 per cent.

The figures for Aroostook are 30,000 acres against 26,000 in 1919 and for the rest of Maine 23,000 against 21,000. Good prices for last year's crop and the receipt of sufficient fertilizer, are given as the reasons for the unexpected increase.

The potato crop forecast for other New England states shows increases of eight and nine per cent. In Vermont and New Hampshire, respectively, decreases of 15 and 12 per cent. In Rhode Island, and Connecticut and Massachusetts acreage unchanged.

The commercial apple crop indicates an increase of nine per cent over last year, with 1,529,000 barrels. Maine is the only state showing a decrease. In Connecticut the increase is 25 per cent. All states show better quality, the report says.

Peaches are reported a failure in New Hampshire, not more than a 10 per cent crop in Massachusetts and about a 30 per cent crop in Rhode Island and Connecticut.

It was very convenient for the dwellers in Maple-Tree Apartments to have the Mouses so near, and to make things still nicer, a little dumb-waiter (elevator) ran up and down inside the tree, which carried garbage cans and laundry baskets, and furniture when folks were moving in or out.

When Tiggaling and Nancy and Nick arrived for the rent, carrying the rent book, and the large lead pencil, Munchie was just washing up at the kitchen sink, getting ready to eat his dinner, and Mrs. Munchie was folding away the last of the Squirrel family's clothes in their basket, while the coffee boiled.

"Hello, Munchie," called the fairy landlord through the window. "Rent day!"

"Why, so it is," answered Munchie, rolling down his sleeves and opening the door. "Come in, Mr. Tiggaling, won't you?"

"Company's with me," answered the fairyman.

"The more the merrier," answered Munchie. "Bring 'em along."

So in they filed, including the Magical Mushroom.

Mrs. Munchie put her laundry basket on the elevator and pulled the rope. Thereupon the basket, elevator, and all went up, up and up to the Squirrel family's floor, where it stopped, and the next thing they heard was Mrs. Samantha dragging the basket off.

"Now," said Mrs. Munchie, untying her apron, "come and sit down, folks, while the cheese cakes are hot." Which they all did, but where they got cheese I'll never tell you, unless it might be from the milkweed!

AMUSEMENT NOTES

(By Theatres' Own Press Agents)

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

There's a fine warm weather program on tap at the Merrimack Square theatre for the latter half of the week. Bessie Barriscale, one of the most attractive stars before the public today, is being featured in "The Notorious Mrs. Sands," a strong dramatic offering, dealing with modern society. It tells the story of a girl forced into an unwelcome marriage despite her love for another. The other feature of the current program is "The Butterfly Man," starring Lew Cody. The story is from the pen of George Barr McCutcheon and is most absorbing. The Bill on Holmes travel pictures and the International News.

THE STRAND

Would you buy, at the expense of your country, your life and perhaps that of the girl you love? Robert Trevor had been accused by a dying man of murder. The dead man's wife was also incriminated. At the eleventh hour an agent of a foreign country offered to testify that he had committed the murder if Trevor would turn over to him certain dye formulas belonging to the United States and wanted by the spy's country. What did Robert Trevor say to that proposition? Did his love for the girl over-balance his love for his country? Was the girl, too, willing to make the sacrifice? "The Blood Barrier," which is to be shown at The Strand for the first time today, presents such an interesting situation as that above. To relate how it develops and what the ultimate outcome is would be to deprive many patrons of the real good that is in the picture story. Suffice it to say that many interesting and new angles are evolved as the big climax comes at the close. Don't miss it if you like tense situations of real action. Sylvia Breamer and Robert Gordon are the stars.

Taylor Holmes in "Nothing But Lies," is the other big feature for the weekend. It's a highly amusing comedy and it has "nothing but laughs" in its entire length. It has a most amusing plot that has to do with the efforts of a young man to cover up a friend's mistake made at the instigation of a radical young woman known as Riot Rosie—a she-Bolshevik. Just see the picture and laugh yourself tired. The usual comedy and Weekly will also be shown.

THE OWL

The work of beautiful Claire Adams as the feminine romantic lead of "Riders of the Dawn," Benjamin R. Hampton's big photoplay from Zane Grey's novel, "The Desert of Wheat," appearing at the Owl theatre for the remainder of the week, is most favorably commented on. She is an absolute foil to the bluntness and stalwartness of Roy Stewart. Hitherto noted chiefly for her dramatic acting, this emphasis on the romantic side of her appeal in "Riders of the Dawn" has caused a great deal of comment—and all of a flattering kind.

The genius of Zane Grey shines through this splendid picture, from beginning to end. That he is one of the most popular of writers cannot be doubted. And he has written around wheat this powerful story, a story linked with our recent war, with some of the troubling conditions at home. The men and women brought into his novel are truthful pictures of thousands of others. And as shown in the picture they are gripping. There are several other and shorter pictures on the program.

TIGER OF FRANCE

PARIS, July 15.—That Georges Clemenceau, the former premier, has definitely withdrawn from active politics and worries little about criticisms leveled at him by enemies of his regime and of the Versailles treaty, was shown the other day when the correspondent of The Associated Press called on him to obtain his reply to the lauds of his adversaries in the chamber of deputies to the effect that he did not know where Mosul (Turkey) was located when he ceded it to Great Britain.

"These professors of geography, who are criticising me," replied the former premier, "would be greatly embarrassed if some one should ask the location of a town of that size in their own circumlocutions."

M. Clemenceau who was engaged in the task of putting the finishing touches on the first draft of a novel dealing with Egyptian life, said he was through with politics forever. "My task is finished, I have done my work," he told the correspondent.

The statesman, now entering his 80th year looked hale and vigorous and in better health than he has been since the attempt upon his life by Emile Zola.

Saved from hard rubbing and boiling, your clothes washed with Rinso last twice as long

Sheets—ordinary tablecloths and heavy bedspreads

Now you can just soak them clean

THESE bulky things can now be washed at home almost as easily as handkerchiefs!

No need to rub them on the washboard. No need to boil them. Hours of heavy lifting and awkward handling saved. All you do is soak them and rinse them and they are ready for the line—snow-white, with not the shadow of a speck on them!

How can just soaking make them clean?

Easily. If you soak them in Rinso suds.

Rinso is a new form of soap for the family washing. Not a cake of soap, not a washing powder. It comes in fine granules so rich in pure soap that they loosen every bit of dirt as the clothes soak. When you rinse the clothes the dirt just falls out.

Only badly soiled places need a very little rubbing with your hands to make these, too, gleaming white! Even in cold water Rinso cleans in the same wonderful way.

And best of all, there are no harsh cleansing agents in Rinso, no gritty substances to "eat" your clothes. It is so pure and mild that your clothes soak as safely in Rinso suds as in water.

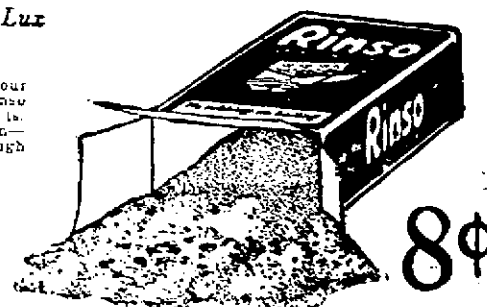

Those sheets now in your hamper—get them out and try washing them this new Rinso way. Nothing will so well show you how wonderful Rinso really is. Get a package today from your grocer. Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Mass.

The Associated Press is exclusively entitled to the use for republication of all news dispatches credited to it or not otherwise credited in this paper and also the local news published herein.

"Women like to keep men guessing," says a wire story from Washington. They usually succeed.

The state department of agriculture reports a bumper crop of tobacco. Does this presage a reduction in the high cost of living that is to go up in smoke?

It seems strange that in the case of Debs, who tried hard during the war to get into jail, his friends should now be so anxious to get him out.

The statement of Emma Goldman that the Bolsheviks have killed 200 of the Reds, who were deported on the ark Buford, recalls that we have heard before of a tigress destroying her own cubs.

Federal officials continue to secure indictments against alleged profiteers, and presumably it is within the range of possibilities that some day we may hear that they have obtained a conviction.

There is certainly some first class literary ability being employed by Lowell banks in preparing their newspaper advertising. If you don't believe it, look over the advertising columns of The Sun almost any day.

Thank you, gentlemen of the public utilities commission, for the cut ordered in the rates for seasonal telephones. It encourages the hope that some day we shall be able to talk more cheaply over the wires all the year round.

The Harding way of conducting a campaign from a front porch may be more dignified, but the Cox method of swinging about over the country, talking to the people and giving them a chance to see him, savors more of democracy.

The Protectionist devotes considerable space to praise of the face of Calvin Coolidge. It is a very good face doubtless—anyway it's the best that Mr. Coolidge has—but it isn't the face of the next vice president unless all signs fail.

"There is no danger that the country will starve this year," says J. H. Howard, president of the American farm bureau federation. Probably there are not many of us who really thought we should. Nevertheless, the announcement is reassuring.

It must be worse than facing the high prices of the profiteers to be in the shoes of New England farmers with hay worth $30 a ton and long acres of ripened grass rippling untouched in the sun with no prospect of a mowing machine being run over them because of the shortage of farm labor.

"There is no shortage of coal," says the president of the American Wholesale Coal association. "The coal situation in Massachusetts is extremely critical," says the state fuel administrator. T. R.'s shorter and uglier word suggests itself as having possibilities of usefulness here.

The people of Pawtucketville are to have a chance to bury the petition for a license to operate a dance hall on the boulevard, at a hearing before the license commission, so deep that if it ever seeks the nearest way for resurrection it will make its appearance in the antipodes.

It is sad to recall, as another Bastille day passes into history, that political liberty is still a stranger to such a large part of mankind. Bolshevik Russia lies crushed under a tyranny worse, if possible, than that against which the peasants of the French revolution revolted. Ireland is still "the Nibbe of nations, all tears" under the dominance of a tyrannous and oppressive government. Four hundred million people in India are, in the words of Macaulay, still "ruled by the sword."

Our esteemed contemporary has now the good of a sentence accredited to Vice Presidential Nemo. Roosevelt, the grammatical construction of which it rather apparently recommends. In its criticism appears the phrase, "Mr. Roosevelt graduated (from Harvard) at about the same time with John Jacob Rogers." We report such statements as "at about" in the ordinary run of the news columns, but never as coming from the learned editor who has arrogated to himself the duties of grammar censor, plenipotentiary and extraordinary hereabouts. Then, if he graduated "with" how could he have graduated "at about the same time?"

SOLDIER'S WIDOW STARVING

When the widow of a Civil war veteran collapsed in the office of the soldiers' relief department at Boston, there was proof of the heartlessness of the red tape arrangement that gives only as little as possible and only where refusal would plainly violate a mandatory law. This woman's husband had died some time ago in the soldiers' home and although she was 73 years old, she was left to shift for herself until she was found starving. It is feared that there are many such cases in which people who deserve care and sustenance are neglected. Many of the officials in the state aid office try to find some ground for refusing the simplest request made by a veteran and for the widow or dependents of a deceased veteran they have no sympathy whatever. Such people should not be placed in charge of relief departments. The Boston case is not at all uncommon.

HIGH-TONED CHARITY

An example of high-toned benevolence comes to light in Boston in a case in which various creditors demand payment of bills amounting to $20,000, the same having been incurred last May for the presentation of a biblical pageant entitled "The Chosen King." It was patronized and abundantly patronized by Back Bay society women and the proceeds were to be devoted to the service fund of the Salvation Army. Instead of receiving anything from the presentation the army loaned the committee $1000 with which to meet preliminary expenses. A young lady from Marblehead wrote the pageant and just who may be held responsible for the bills has not yet been determined. It may be recalled that during the war certain society ladies of New York undertook to raise a great fund but, as the expenditures were so large that they were eating up the receipts, the undertaking was abandoned. Such "patriotic" and "charitable" workers would bankrupt public charity by their display of vanity. They are only notoriety seekers and poseurs.

UNCLE SAM'S INSURANCE

The federal government's insurance business is doing very well. Advance figures of the year ending June 30 indicate this.

Policies covering more than 40 billion dollars of insurance are carried. This exceeds any private life insurance record ever made. Over four and a half million policy holders carry United States insurance. They are getting this protection at less cost than private corporations could give it to them. This, of course, is to be expected, for private concerns are in the business for a profit. And, too, the cost of doing business is lighter for Uncle Sam. He has less soliciting to do, no commissions to pay, and fewer overhead expenses.

Thus far, as the 1920 report shows, the war risk insurance bureau has done well. But the real test is to come. While other businesses may be fairly accurately gauged after a two-year trial it is not so with life insurance. There the real strain comes with the aging of the insured. The death rate grows; claims pile high and higher. Private concerns constantly review the youthfulness of their policy holders by the addition of younger persons, persons fit physically to pay premiums.

The war risk bureau started with an ideal collection of policy holders. All were young, in the flower of manhood, physically fit. But to this was added physical training in the outdoors.

Government insurance is not an assured success. But it may be so if the business is done in a manner as careful as business like, as efficient as private insurance concerns do it. All other things being equally well done, government insurance should be lower in cost by reason of the elimination of profit and high cost of competitive business-getting. N. E. A.

TRADE WITH RUSSIA

The state department announces it has authorized resumption of trade with Russia.

But the department announces that "individuals do so on their own responsibility and on their own risks." Furthermore, no recognition is accorded the soviet government—not even recognition as a de facto government—so that no legal or other protection can possibly be given to American business men desirous of doing business in Russia. Furthermore, passports will not be issued to commercial representatives or agents who may desire to go to Russia to develop trade; further, no commodity which could by any possibility be devoted to war use will be permitted to be exported.

The postoffice will not accept any mail for Russia; it will be impossible to forward goods by parcel post, or even communicate with agents in Russia.

Outside of these restrictions and any others that the department can think of when any merchant actually gets to the point of sending a shipload of goods to Russia, Americans are quite free now to trade with Russia.—N. E. A.

SCURRILOUS METHODS

Already the New York Sun and Boston Herald are digging into newspaper records to find any morsel of news or editorial comment that might serve to reflect upon Governor Cox of Ohio, the democratic nominee for president. They have editorials printed in Mr. Cox's paper, the Dayton News, before the declaration of war and isolated extracts are brought forward to sustain the charge that the governor was then pro-German. Like many others, the governor's paper said some complimentary things of Germany and the German-American citizens before the war.

In that course, every American newspaper was fully privileged to do so; but the quotations from the Dayton News are not such as to indicate any strong pro-German sentiment, as they simply recognize an important element of our population as having a right to due consideration as Americans.

Nothing has been shown in these extracts to injure the standing of Governor Cox as a real American. The efforts of the papers mentioned to adduce some evidence of this kind, indicate their plan of campaign which is to resort to the lowest brand of journalism in order to cast a stigma, if possible, upon the democratic candidate.

They have raked up his divorce case but have been unable to show that there was any immoral charge involved in the case on either side. Apparently Mrs. Cox brought the charge of incompatibility of temper and on this ground sought divorce. She may have discovered "an affinity" with whom she looked forward to an early union; and the fact that she was soon married to the lawyer who helped her to get the divorce, lends color to that theory. Governor Cox entered no defense and submitted to the decree of the court.

It shows a degree of hypocrisy for men who have never before lifted their voices against the divorce evil, and who may themselves resort to the divorce court at any time, to come out in an effort to besmirch the character of the democratic nominee because he had been a victim of a law which is approved in every state of the union.

Apparently these republican organs are seeking some scandal with which to blacken the good name of Governor Cox. If that is their method of campaign, it will fail utterly and it deserves to fail.

If the republican majority in Ohio thought enough of Governor Cox to elect him three times their chief executive, they must have a pretty high opinion of him. In forming a fair and true estimate of the man, we prefer to take the word of the republicans who know him to that of the newspapers which have set out with malice prepense to blacken his character as a means of leading to accomplish his defeat. These articles, although purporting to deal with records, are distorting the facts in an effort to bring the republican cause—and person—into disrepute.

There can be no objection, however, to any fair presentation of the like, as efficient as private insurance concerns do it. All other things being equally well done, government insurance should be lower in cost by reason of the elimination of profit and high cost of competitive business-getting. N. E. A.

SEEN AND HEARD

Don't embarrass the hostess by taking more than one lump.

A good many men we know must have read Stevenson, for it was he who said, "Let any man speak long enough, he will get believers."

The public will never get justice until it agrees with justice is.

Mutton chops being scarce and costly, mutton-heads are more in vogue.

Women say they don't look like the pictures used in clothing advertisements. Then they should have an "art to art" talk and decide on what's to be etched out.

Wages say:

"When the weather's warm and fair, I sure enjoy the water. And the ladies who are there."

Must Be Bad

"In Siam, a man in prison may obtain a pardon and release if he will marry a king's ward, that is an old maid."

"And they take advantage of the opportunity?"

"They do."

"Gosh! I didn't know that there were still in the world prisons as awful as that."

The Sign of No

"That dog of mine is very intelligent," said the sweet young thing.

"I have no doubt of it," replied the caller.

"I was sleeping just now, and I asked Fido if he liked the song, and he wagged his tail."

"But did he wag it up and down or from side to side?"

"Why, from side to side, of course."

"Well, I should say that he meant he was not pleased."—Yonkers Statesman.

Judging By Sounds

"What are you doing in the kitchen, Thomas?" inquired the inquisitive wife.

"I'm opening a can of tomatoes, if you particularly wish to know," he impatiently rejoined.

"And what are you opening it with?"

"Why, with a can opener. Did you think I was using my teeth?" he added savagely.

"Oh, no, dear," she sweetly replied; "but I do know you are not opening it with prayer."—Manitoba Free Press.

More to Be Pitted

To the rear door of the house of a lonely spinster in a Pennsylvania town there recently came a seedy-looking person, who, after being given some food, made to hold as to proffer this additional request:

"Missus, ask your husband if he ain't got an old pair of trousers, to give me."

Whereupon the spinster anxious not to expose her solitude, replied:

"I am sorry, my good man, but he—er—never wears such things."—Harper's.

Recompense

He sang green fields and country lanes in Spring.

Of gardens' scents and fragrance of grassy street.

Who only knew the drab environment and cobble of a sordid city street.

On home and happiness his fancy dwelt.

The love of him, the hand-grasp of a friend—

Who in an attic lived, with but his dog.

To bark in welcome at the drear day's end.

And yet—such lonely hearts who warm themselves.

By the faint fire of their imaginings Have this one recompense—they never know.

How often love and happiness take wings!

The fifteenth annual outing of the A. G. Cadets was held at Canobie lake today. Five special cars left Merrimack square this morning at 8 o'clock. Rev. Rosario Jalbert, O.M.I., spiritual director for the cadets was in direct charge. Upon their arrival at the park the young cadets had time to run off a few of the sports before the downpour of rain came at the noon hour. The program for good weather had included baseball and many games. Patrolman Joseph I. Lamoureux was in charge of the sports. Excitement for the afternoon was dampened and activities were confined to the "hobby horses" and other sheltered places. About 200 people from St. Joseph's parish went on the outing.

HOUSE LOTS AT BELVIDERE PARK

Mr. Flagg, agent for the Park Land company reports a number of sales this week of house lots at Belvidere park in that beautiful residential section down on Andover street. He tells us that a number of recent purchasers are preparing plans for home building and in a short time this section will undoubtedly take on a building boom. While the lots are selling fast, there are some splendid ones remaining. Some as low as $115. Any lot can be purchased on easy terms if preferred. Now is the opportunity to secure one of these building lots even though you hold it for awhile before building. Mr. Flagg will be on the ground Friday, Saturday and Sunday to meet prospective purchasers. Take Andover street car.

LUCY LARCOM CLUB

The Lucy Larcom club of West Tewksbury held an outing at Canobie lake yesterday. The members of the club met at Merrimack square at 10 o'clock and took the Lawrence car and first visited the Old Ladies' Home in that city before starting for the park where they had dinner. The return was made about 5 o'clock. Mrs. John McLeod, president of the club was in charge of the arrangements.

It looks like the more long-green women pay for their dresses the shorter they get.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

Judging from various announcements recently made, it would appear that there will be a great many educational courses available in this city for people who have already left school and who wish to continue their studies. There will be courses offered in special branches intended to enable people who work in the factories and elsewhere to prepare for higher positions. The great trouble seems to be, that after leaving school the great majority of young men do not care to give their time to any useful study. Apparently they do not realize the possibilities of self-advancement offered in these courses provided by the university extension department, the evening high school and the textile school. It is not too soon to look into these matters and select courses for study during the fall and winter.

At present there are several ordinances restricting the parking of automobiles to certain sections of the business streets of the city, the object being to avoid congestion of traffic. The ordinance submitted by Commissioner Salmon and passed at the city council meeting on Tuesday affects all parts of the city where there are hydrants or firehouses. It will go into effect on the 1st of this month and will call for much additional work by the police, especially in the outlying sections of the city. The police, however, will be instructed to enforce this ordinance throughout the city, so that those who fail to comply with its provisions are likely to get into trouble. Hydrants must be held ready for immediate use; and an auto left in front of a hydrant is liable, at any time, to obstruct the firemen in case it should be required for use in fire fighting. That is why an ordinance is necessary to prevent obstruction of the fire department in any emergency.

Some idea of just what the new high school in Kirk street will look like when completed is now afforded the passerby as the first bricks that will eventually become a part of the exterior of the building have been put in place. I am not enough of a building expert to give the precise name of this kind of brick but they are of the light brown type, similar to those of the old high school building and the Textile school in Moody street. They present a most attractive appearance and when the few that are already in place are magnified by hundreds of others that will go to make up the exterior of the big building, the general impression should be exceptionally inviting. It will be many months, of course, before the outer walls of the school are completed, but there is every indication just now that after years of delay Lowell will have a building of which she may be justly proud.

There is no more enjoyable day in the entire course of the year for the store workers than that on which they go to the beach or some popular resort for a whole day's outing. It is refreshing to see the employers mingle with their help in the various games and sports, fully as human and susceptible to surrounding influences as their most humble employee. No longer are they superintendents, heads of departments, floorwalkers or bosses, but just common, ordinary members of the party, just as liable as any to win or lose in the games of chance, the athletic sports and quite as likely to get a ducking while romping in the breakers. This custom of holding at least one outing in the course of the year at which all meet on a common level is one that helps very much to efface the separating lines due to difference of position that must always exist in the management of large establishments. It helps to convince the lowest paid worker that he is an essential member of a great organization. That feeling of self importance helps in the long run in uniting all in one harmonious body, all imbued with a desire to work honestly and devotedly for the success of the firm, the business house or department store of whose force he is a member.

A friend connected with the business of selling picture-making apparatus and supplies tells me that the amateur photographer has come into his own again this year. During the war the photographic business was at a standstill. Possessors of cameras found themselves hampered by the most rigid kind of restrictions. Snap-shooting in public places even for the most innocent purposes, was practically prohibited. A photographer connected with a Boston newspaper discovered that it was not very profitable to undertake to make pictures promiscuously while on a trip to the Green Mountain state. He had been sent up there on the legitimate errand of securing pictures of scenes connected with a news event. He had no trouble, in so far as these particular pictures were concerned, for he took pains to inform the authorities in advance exactly what he wished to do. A little later he went into an adjoining town and the thought occurred to him that he would make some pictures that might come in handy sometime to illustrate a story on maple-sugar making. He had made a couple of innocent enough exposures when two men approached him. One confiscated his camera and the other snatched a pair of handcuffs on his wrists. He was promptly deposited in the nearest calaboose, charged with being a German spy, and it required some pretty strenuous telegraphic and explaining to get him out. Supply those days are past and the amateur camera owner can now snap pictures where and when he listeth.

AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENTS

While attempting to jump on the running board of an automobile owned by the park department and operated by Warren White in Central street late yesterday afternoon a boy, Thomas Gallagher by name, fell to the ground and received a severe cut on the head. The automobile operated by William Keitner of 65 Jefferson street, collided with a bicycle operated by Philip Paralle of 115 Alton street on the Pawtucket bridge last evening. The bicycle was damaged and Paralle received slight injuries. He was taken to his home in Mr. Keitner's machine.

The scarcity of farm labor should be helped as soon as some of these candidates are broken loose from their misalliance.

ANNUAL PARISH PICNIC: KEEP COAL FOR OWN USE

AND FIELD DAY

Everything is in readiness for the annual parish picnic and field day of the Sacred Heart parish, scheduled to be held on the parochial grounds, Moore street, next Saturday afternoon and evening.

Throughout the parish much interest is being manifested in the affair and the committees on arrangements are putting forward their very best efforts to make this year's reunion an event unique in the annals of the parish. The merry midway that has been such a delightful attraction in the past, will again be very much in evidence. Bordered on either side with tastefully decorated booths, presided over by the prettiest girls in the parish, a scene of rare loveliness meets the eye of the observer. The gladsome friendly spirit that permeates the atmosphere, as greetings are exchanged between old friends along the midway, lends a cheeriness and congeniality to the occasion that has characterized this Annual event as a delightful reunion and genuine "at home" of the Sacred Heart parishioners and their friends.

Space does not permit an enumeration of the many and varied attractions that will be seen along the midway, but that all the thrills and activities so popularly identified with this annual event, will be there presented is assured.

"Something new and entirely different" in the dogging line will be introduced which will doubtless prove a popular attraction.

An excellent program of athletic events has been arranged for the afternoon and it is expected that each number will be closely contested. Taken in its entirety, the day's program, as arranged, surpasses in excellence anything of its kind yet attempted by the parishioners of the Sacred Heart and that the efforts of the various committees will be successful, the increasing demand for tickets and the assured record-breaking attendance, bear eloquent testimony.

Head of British Miners Also

Sees Need of Price Regulation

BY MILTON BRONNER, European Manager N.E.A. LONDON, July 15.—England, suffering now from coal shortage and expecting to suffer still further when the famous British Miners' Federation begins its gigantic struggle soon for the nationalization of mines, has still some advantages over America, thinks Robert Smillie, president of the federation. I talked with Smillie today.

Embargo Needed
"America should place an embargo on coal," he told me, "so that domestic needs will be supplied first. Also it should have government regulations of coal prices."

"Britain also has exported coal at high prices but not at the cost of the domestic consumer who received coal at figures fixed by the government. The government would not dare and the public would not tolerate export that would deprive domestic consumers of the coal they needed."

"Furthermore, the British miners would refuse to work the mines if domestic consumers were penalized so that exporters could make huge profits out of Europe's needs."

Price Will Be High
"If America allows unlimited export at high prices, coal will be too high for many American industries, and that will throw many workmen from their jobs. Industries that could pay high prices for coal would pass that cost on to the consumer, once more increasing the cost of living."

"Finally," said Smillie, "speaking as a laborer to American labor, unlimited American export of coal to Europe would be used by British mine owners as an argument to beat down the demands of British miners."

YACHTING ARMADA IN LINE FOR RACE

SANDY HOOK, N. J., July 15.—A yachting armada gathered off the Hook today for the first America's cup race in 17 years. Private craft, excursion boats and airplanes speeding southward across New York bay found nesting behind the great sand spit two sloops that are the pride of Britain and America—Shamrock IV, challenger, with sleek green sides and Resolute, defender, dazzling in her coat of white. Aboard them were Captain William P. Burton and his crew of British tars and Captain Charles Francis Adams and his crew of Bostonians, with his Yankee sailor men.

With the start set for noon from the Ambrose channel light vessel, the rival skippers conversed with their navigators regarding weather and wind conditions which would determine the course to be set them by the race committee. They knew that the rules called for a windward and leeward course of 20 miles, but by the direction of the wind alone would the course be charted.

Farmer-Labor Party Formed

with the committee of 48, met and considered placing their own ticket in the field under the 48 banner. Not all of the forty-eight delegates withdrew from the fusion convention last night when some 100 or more returned to their own convention. Those who remained were rewarded by seeing Christensen, the chairman of their convention, selected to lead the fusion party while the labor leaders contented themselves with the election of their national chairman, Hayes, to second place.

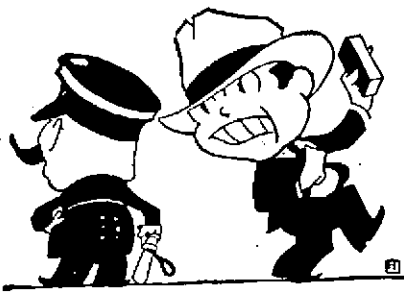

Forty-eight leaders declined to say what effect this concession would have on their course when they met today. It was apparent that Christensen's nomination served to weld strongly the elements remaining in the convention. One report, in fact, was current that the dissatisfied forty-eighters would confine their activities today to organize anew for a purely educational movement.

J. A. H. Hopkins, national chairman of the forty-eighters, addressed the farmer labor meeting after reports became prevalent that a bolt had been determined upon by him and his friends and denied that such an agreement had been reached. He avoided saying, however, that none was in contemplation, and, in statements issued for publication, criticized the dominant labor group for its handling of the amalgamation and declared a great opportunity had been missed.

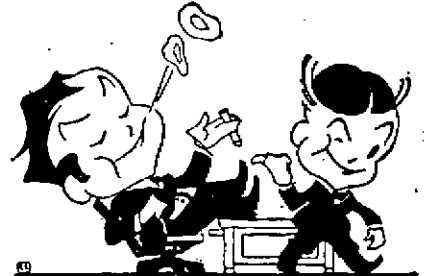

Not all was harmony in the fusion convention during the hours the platform and candidates were under discussion. Heated debate developed also over the choice of a name for the new born political group. The forty-eighters carried their unsuccessful committee fight against the socialist doctrines of the radical laborites to the floor, pursuing the same tactics they used throughout the platform discussion, they attempted to force their wishes across through the use of Senator La Follette's name.

An embryo stampede and a 45-minute demonstration for the Wisconsin senator resulted from the injection of

PREMIER YACHTSMAN AT RESOLUTE'S HELM

NEW YORK, July 15.—Charles Francis Adams, 2nd, the man at the wheel who will try to steer the Resolute to victory in her first race, in defense of America's cup of Sandy Hook today, is characterized by experts as the premier American yachtsman.

He has owned more than a score of yachts and has sailed nearly 100, small and large and some of these have been the best boats of their class in America and the world.

Mr. Adams is treasurer of Harvard university and a member of the corporation, a director in many companies and in personal charge of trust estates amounting to many millions. Years ago he became known to yachting associates under the nickname of "Deacon" and some of them still call him, that name.

Born at Quincy, Mass., he came of a long line of seafaring men and inherited a love for the sea. He is credited with calm judgment and a high type of sportsmanship. His father used to take him sailing in Boston harbor when he was a child and by the time he was 12 he was winning races with his small boats. In those days he learned a lot about the tricky side of races for rules were lax.

In later years Mr. Adams built and sailed to victory many notable yachts most of which bore names composed of seven letters with a double o, such as the Papoose, Baboon, Gossion, Harpoon and Rooster.

He was at the wheel of the famous Pilgrim when she sailed a race against the Vigilant and Jubilee for the honor of defending the America's cup in 1893. He sent his brother George, mate of the Pilgrim to the leeward rail to watch the jib sheets as the yacht drove along in a smoky southwester. She heeled so that George soon stood in water up to his knees.

"Hey, there, Deacon," he yelled, "it's getting deep out here."

"I don't care if it comes up to your neck, you stay there till I tell you to come out," replied Capt. Charles. But the Pilgrim was defeated.

There may be a happy omen in the fact that Charles F. Adams years ago blocked the aspirations of one little Scotch cutter, the Minerva, which came to America and defeated a number of American boats in 1836. Her victories were regarded as ominous and suggested to yachtsmen the possibility that a larger boat of her type would be sent to carry away the America's cup. The Minerva was sailed by Charlie Barr, the famous skipper, who defended the cup as skipper of the Columbia in 1891 and the Reliance in 1903. But Captain Adams with his little Gossion stopped the victorious career by winning two out of three races.

Captain Christensen, the professional skipper of the Resolute has sailed with Mr. Adams before. He was quarter-master of the Pilgrim in the race of 1893 and won Mr. Adams' approval by going out to the gaff, a dangerous position to fasten a sail that became loose while the race was on.

AT SPRINGFIELD TRACK RECORDS GO

SPRINGFIELD, July 15.—Three track records were broken in the Eastern states harness races yesterday afternoon in the first day's meeting of the Bay State circuit races. The feature was the new England colt, Mark set up by Lymen Bruce behind Gauveta in the first heat of the 3-year-old event, 2:14 1/2 over a half-mile track.

In the 2:12 race Margaret Dillon covered the oval in the remarkable time of 2:05 1/2. Her 2:05 1/2 in the first and third heats were ahead of the record. Ruby Aubrey broke the track record in the 2:16 trot in the first heat by going in 2:10 1/2. Hersemen declared the course was the fastest in the east.

TWILIGHT GAME ON SOUTH COMMON

The first "big" twilight game to be played in Lowell this season will be staged on the South common tomorrow evening when Pitts' South Ends will line up against the strong South Lawrence A.A. KNIGHTS OF TWO CITIES IN BATTLE ARRAY

The Lowell K. of C. aggregation lost to the Lawrence K. of C. in a heart-breaking twilight game on the North common in Lawrence last evening, 8 to 7. A home run in the final inning with three men on bases gave the Lawrence knights their victory.

Everything was set for a Lowell win and after the locals' turn at bat in the sixth and final inning they were leading 7 to 4. In their half, however, the Lawrence men succeeded in congesting the parks and when Delany hit a long fly into the bleak outfield that escaped Condon because of the darkness, four men trotted over the plate. The Lowell outfit hit the Lawrence pitcher freely and but for the unfortunate break in the sixth would have won easily. Scully and Walter Foye did the battering work for Lowell, and McParland and Sullivan for Lawrence.

OLYMPIC TRYOUTS GET UNDER WAY FRIDAY

CAMBRIDGE, July 15.—The speediest and strongest of the country's amateur athletes, champions of the world, of the country and of the colleges, gathered here today for the two days' meeting which begins tomorrow to decide the national title holders for this year and to organize America's athletic forces for the Olympiad games. Many of the men were in action as a final touch of training on Tech field and out of their informal efforts came reports indicating record breaking competition in the mile and tryout events to be held on the Harvard stadium track and field. Sprinters were running the classic 100-yards dash in 9.4 seconds consistently and middle distance runners were being timed in record figures on their tests.

SMASHES ANOTHER WORLD'S RECORD

NEW YORK, July 15.—Miss Ethelred Bleibrey of New York yesterday made a new world's swimming record of 4m. 34.1-ss. in the 300-meter swim for women at the Olympic tryouts at Manhattan beach. The former world's record of 4m. 43.4-ss. by Frances Cowells, Schroit, of San Francisco, was broken by Miss Bleibrey in her trial heat also in 4m. 40.1-ss. Miss Bleibrey's competitors in the final event included Eleanor Uhl, Meadowbrook club, Philadelphia; Frances Cowells Schroit, San Francisco; Margaret Woodhouse, Detroit; and Miss Charlotte Boyle, Women's Swimming association, New York, and Helen Moses, Honolulu.

REDS CUT ADRIFT FOUR YOUNGSTERS

CINCINNATI, July 15.—Four young pitchers were dropped from the roster of the Cincinnati Nationals yesterday. Guy Rickard, Cornell star, was unofficially released. Bart Cummins, Amherst college pitcher, and Harry Carlson, who was sent to Evansville, Ind., while John Thiel will go to Shreveport, La., club for further seasoning.

3000 ENTRIES FOR ANTWERP GAMES

ANTWERP, July 14.—Entries pouring in on the Olympic committee indicate that Stockholm's total of 3000 contestants may be exceeded, despite the absence of Germany and Austria from this year's games. Arrangements were made today by the committee to meet each arriving group with bands and, if possible, to escort them to their quarters.

FRENCH CHAMPION ON LOSING END

MONTREAL, July 14.—Tommy Noble of New York, outpointed Georges Papin, French lightweight champion, in a fast 10-round bout here tonight. Noble carried the fight to Papin in a majority of the rounds.

WEST ENDERS FALL IN TWILIGHT HOUR

The West End baseball team of this city was defeated by the Lawrence A.A., 2 to 1, in a twilight game in the downriver city last evening. Mayor Thompson said this city triumphed on bases and Major White of Lawrence behind the plate.

this issue. But the well-laid plans were nullified by labor leaders, who blocked demands for an immediate consideration of a platform said to be satisfactory to La Follette, and which, it was claimed, had been concealed by "committee intrigue." The laborites got their platform before the convention first and, although a minority report, drawn along lines said to be acceptable to the Wisconsin senator, was presented, the majority faction won.

Rumblings heard behind the scenes for two days burst upon the convention during the heated platform discussions with forty-eighters charging the fusion party with being "boss ridden" by a clique.

Amidst the uproar when delegates in every corner of the hall were clamoring to speak, Gilbert E. Roe, La Follette's personal representative, sent in word that Senator La Follette would not under any circumstances become the party nominee on the majority platform which was adopted soon afterward.

Removal of La Follette as an anchor for the less radical of the forty-eighters left them free to be shoved aside by the votes of the laborites and the latter's control was never again seriously questioned. They held the reins and the forty-eighters trailed along through the rest of the session, although once they tried to raise their voice in the proceedings and discourage adoption of the name "farmer-labor" as a party designation.

They contended without success that the "white collar slaves" and eastern liberals, both small merchants and professional men, would be driven away by what they described as a "class" name. The appeals went unheeded and the title already approved by the labor and farmer groups went through with a whoop.

With La Follette removed as potential candidate for the presidential nomination, no well organized boom was left. As a result the delegates were soon provided with an assortment from which to choose. The list of names placed in nomination included, besides Christensen, Dudley Field Malone, New York; Eugene F. Debs, the socialist nominee; Henry Ford, Detroit; Louis F. Post, assistant secretary of labor; Governor Lynn J. Frazier of North Dakota; Jane Addams and several others. After one ballot the convention voted to eliminate all except Christensen and Malone, the two leaders, and nomination came on the second ballot.

When vice presidential candidates were called for the convention was swamped with a list of more than 20, but name after name was withdrawn, either by the candidates in person, or by friends, until only three were left—Max S. Hayes, Carrie Chapman Catt, suffragist leader, and Lester Barlow, leader of the world war veterans. Hayes received all excepting about a dozen votes and the nomination then was made unanimous and at 4 o'clock the convention adjourned, sine die.

Resolute's Skipper Has Sailed Ever Since He Could Toddle

BY DEAN SNYDER

There's a good man at the wheel of the Resolute's cup defender. Born to the sea 51 years ago, Charles Francis Adams has been making daring voyages ever since he could toddle around the wave-washed decks.

He got his inspiration from his father, John Quincy Adams, who used to take him on fishing trips just outside the Boston harbor in the little catboat, The Nettle.

For 15 years Adams has owned and sailed yachts.

One of his biggest assets is his calm and modest judgment and common sense. There are no better sportsmen than Adams in the game.

He has built and raced many canvas crafts, including the Rooster, the Bat and the Auk. His log book shows many victories in the international races with Germany and Spain, where he was always a prominent figure.

Manager Robert W. Kinnison, 2nd, selected him to sail the Resolute in 1914. Adams sailed the Resolute triumphantly with a record of 25 victories. He is a short, stocky build. His eyes are a deep sea blue and he always has a smile for everyone.

The skipper has few other recreations except yachting. He belongs to all the prominent clubs of Boston.

Adams holds more jobs as director of financial companies than any other man in New England, one of them consisting of handling the millions belonging to Harvard, as treasurer and member of the corporation.

In 1914 the New York Yacht club elected him to its membership.

Deacon Adams has a big responsibility ahead of him in his race against England's greatest sportsman, but the New York Yacht club is full of confidence with the seasoned veteran of the seas at the wheel of the Defender Resolute.

For long expedition, succeeded in the attempt.

Major Long christened the mountain James peak but the pioneers and plimstoners persisted in giving it the name of its discoverer and Pike's Peak it has remained.

The history of tourist travel to this most famous spot of the Rockies has been that of the development of highway transportation. First came a horse path, in 1873; two years later a wagon road was built and in 1891 a cog wheel railroad was constructed.

With the development of the automobile industry came the demand for a motor road and in 1916 the present motor highway, winding around the

COLORADO SPRING, Colo., July 14.—One hundred years ago today Dr. Frank James astonished the world by climbing to the top of Pike's Peak, 14,109 feet above the sea. Since that time 2,000,000 persons have made the trip and today Colorado Springs is celebrating the anniversary with ceremonies all along the 13-mile serpentine automobile highway to the summit.

Lieutenant Zebulon M. Pike is credited with the discovery of the mountain in 1806. As hardly a pioneer as was the discoverer, he said the peak was inaccessible and none dared to doubt it until July 14, 1820, when Doctor James, a member of the Ma-

RHEUMATISM LEAVES YOU FOREVER

Deep Seated Uric Acid Deposits Are Dissolved and the Rheumatic Poison Starts to Leave the System Within Twenty-four Hours

Every druggist in this country is authorized to say to every rheumatic sufferer that if two bottles of Allenhu, the sure conqueror of rheumatism, does not stop all agony, reduce swollen joints and do away with even the slightest twinges of rheumatic pain, he will gladly return your money without comment.

Allenhu has been tried and tested for years, and really marvelous results have been accomplished in the most severe cases where the suffering and agony was intense and pitiable and where the patient was helpless.

Mr. James H. Allen, the discoverer of Allenhu, who for many years suffered the torments of acute rheumatism, desires all sufferers to know that he does not want a cent of anyone's money unless Allenhu decisively conquers this worst of all diseases, and he has instructed Dr. J. H. Allen, and Fred Howard, druggist, to guarantee it in every instance—adv.

Buy Options On German Marks Good for Six Months

The fact that German money is selling at a small fraction of its normal value should convince even the most skeptical that purchases now offer a wonderful opportunity for large profits. Exchange experts predict a sharp advance within the next few months.

10,000 MARKS CAN BE CONTROLLED FOR $50.00
100,000 MARKS CAN BE CONTROLLED FOR $400.00

Buying options limits your risk as the original cost constitutes your entire liability. The cost of an option involves the use of about one-sixth as much money as would be required to buy marks outright. Should the marks fall on option advance to only one-half normal value the return on $250 would be over $750.00.

Send remittance, stating number of marks you wish to option at above rate. We urge prompt action as exchange fluctuates rapidly. Send for explanatory circular.

mountain in devious curves, with precipitous rock walls flush against the road on the one hand and deep ravines on the other, was completed at a cost of $300,000. It has an average grade of 7 per cent, and a maximum of 10 1/2 per cent. It was 20 feet wide except at the curves which were extended to 50 feet for the greater safety of the motorist.

Pike's Peak is eight miles in an air line from Colorado Springs and the greater part of the mountain is controlled by Colorado Springs to safeguard the city's water supply.

In April, 1919, a government war

tank attempted to climb the peak but was blocked by snow drifts. A month later a caterpillar tractor made the ascent.

Walking races, burro races, motorcycle and automobile races have been held on Pike's peak. The first airplane to cross the peak was down over the mountain on August 2, 1915, piloted by Alexander Lendrum, of Colorado Springs.

The record for motor over the 12 miles from Crystal Creek to the summit is held by Ralph Mulford who made it in 15 minutes, 26 seconds.

Next September the automobile hill-climbing contest, discontinued during the war, will be resumed. An airplane race from Denver around Pike's Peak and return will feature the event.

HOLY LAND

Palestine Acres Never Can Be Sold by Jews

NEW YORK, July 15.—While the Jewish people will be permitted to develop and reap the harvest from land purchased in Palestine by the Jewish national fund and also be privileged to leave it to their children, they can never sell it. This is in accordance with the plan of the fund to nationalize the land in Palestine and eliminate land speculation as announced here by Dr. Baer Epstein, the fund's special commissioner, who has just arrived from England.

The fund, he said, will spend $1,250,000 during the next year for the purchase of barren land which must be reclaimed and made fit for settlement by Jewish settlers.

More than 7,000,000 French francs Dr. Epstein added, have already been spent in buying and cultivating 6000 acres of what now is fertile Palestine land and in developing six agricultural colonies and a dozen individual farms.

The fund not only has purchased

Sure relief

The sufferer from indigestion, dyspepsia, and biliousness, needs no warning to avoid the many worthless, so-called "cures" that are offered, often containing harmful drugs. In vain, these various preparations have been tried, frequently leaving the system weaker than before.

The true "L. F." Atwood's Medicine brings quick relief without the risk of injurious after-effects. Instead of a temporary improvement, at the expense of weakening some vital organ, it helps the entire digestive apparatus, tones the stomach, and establishes a general healthy condition. Taken regularly, the physical improvement which will result, will also overcome the fear of a new attack.

"L. F." can be given with perfect safety to every member of the family. It has been a family health-restorer for 50 years; its friends are steadfast. You can buy a large bottle (60 teaspoonful doses) from your druggist for 50 cents. "L. F." Medicine Co., Portland, Maine.

SCENE AT MUNICIPAL BATHING POOL OFF PAWTUCKET BOULEVARD

New Bath House on Boulevard Scene of Warm Weather Pleasure— Three Experienced Life Guards Constantly on Duty—Attendance Records Broken This Week—Local Bathing Resort Splendid Sub- stitute for Seashore

Pack up your swimming togs, Mr. Man, you who are suffering so much from these sultry July days, take the youngsters by the hand and make a bee-line for the new municipal bath house and swimming pool off the Pawtucket boulevard, if you want the most blessed relief from the devastating onslaughts of the weather man that this town has provided in many a day.

Popularity is the middle name of the bath house and swimming pool area and the hundreds of kiddos and grown-ups who have taken advantage of the pool since it opened a month ago are said to be formulating a petition to ask the municipal authorities to change the name of the boulevard to "Pleasure street," as many avenues of happiness lead from it to the swimming pool.

Just as the accompanying picture if you want photographic evidence of the high esteem in which the city's bathing pool is held by old and young. No, sir, the picture was not taken at Hampton or Revere or any of the older resorts; it was snapped this very week at the boulevard beach. And the special camera which did the work has an enviable reputation for veracity.

The swimming pool is doing a regular fire sale business this week. The long stretch of warm weather has driven hundreds to seek relief in the cool, clear water of the Merrimack and with the attractive conveniences afforded at the bath house there is every inducement to enjoy one's stay in the water whether it be a five-minute plunge or an intermittent sojourn, lasting the greater part of an afternoon or evening.

It is estimated by the life guards and other officials in attendance at the bath house that the daily average attendance at the pool is in the neighborhood of 1000. Within the past two weeks it has been much higher than that but the figures for this period are offset by a comparatively meagre attendance during the first week of the bath house's operations when the weather was cold and stormy.

On Sunday last all records were broken. Fully 30,000 people either were in the water or watched bathers from the sandy beach which lines the shore. There are 420 bathing suits of the description or another available at the bath house and every one of these was in use Sunday, while hundreds of other bathers brought their own suits. The bathers willingly shared locker accommodations with others. It is estimated that 60 per cent. of those who visit the pool bring their own suits.

The bathing pool is in constant use on a warm day from the early hours of the morning until late at night, although the bath house itself is open only from 11 a. m. until 9 p. m. Few serious accidents have been reported in the month that the bath house has been open but hardly a day passes that the three young men officiating as life guards are not called upon to assist bathers who are suffering from minor ills or injuries. At all times they have met whatever demands were made upon them. A first aid kit has been installed in the bath house and through the courtesy of Mayor Perry D. Thompson one of the police department life-saving boats has been transferred to the bath house ready for any emergency. It has also proved a great source of pleasure to the youngsters who patronize the pool. However, the boat is never allowed to leave shore unless it is bearing an experienced swimmer.

A large raft anchored some distance from shore is another source of unending pleasure for the bathers at the pool. It has become a favorite destination for swimmers who have reached that stage of proficiency where they can swim several hundred yards without difficulty.

The Life Guards

Three veterans of the world war, all experienced and tried swimmers, are the life guards at the municipal pool. A brief sketch of each of them may be of interest to those who visit the pool.

Daniel P. Brennan, who has general charge of the bath house, is a veteran of Co. M of the old Ninth Regiment which became part of the 101st in the world war. Brennan served on the Mexican border in 1916 and in March, 1917, responded to the call of the president as a private in the old unit. He went overseas in the summer of 1917 and rapidly made his way upward until he returned to Lowell as a lieutenant and the only Lowell officer of the unit. He was discharged in May, 1919.

Brennan is 25 years old and has been in the swimming game since he was a youngster. He has also been prominent in baseball, basketball and other sports.

James P. Liston, another life guard, is well known to followers of local athletics. Liston is a product of Belvidere, will be 22 years old in October and is a naval veteran of the world war. He served at Bumpkin Island from August 8 to Dec. 31, 1918. He is a graduate of the Lowell high school and was one of the best centers that the local institution ever had.

Liston is at present a student at Lehigh university and has already won honors in swimming and football at the Pennsylvania institution. He has played ball on many local amateur teams, including the South Ends, and is a prominent member of the Y.M.C.A.

Louis J. Turner, the third life guard, served 20 months with a mining squadron of the U. S. navy, 11 months of which were spent in the North sea. He entered the service the day after war was declared and was discharged in August, 1919. He was born in Lynn, but has lived here practically all his life and has been prominent in athletics, having played football with the Indians and baseball with the nine representing the ship on which he served in the navy. Turner will be 22 years old next month.

These three men were appointed life guards only after they had taken a civil service examination at the L street baths in Boston and had passed successfully out of a class of 48. They were not only certified as competent for the work by the civil service commission, but were recommended by the American Legion and the employment bureau of the Community Service club.

Patrolman John Lynch, assigned to duty at the bath house, has been of great assistance to the life guards in keeping "law and order" and in preventing accidents. Lynch himself is an athlete of no mean ability. Traffic Officer Charles Hamilton also visits the bath house regularly when there are large crowds and danger of children being run over when crossing the bath house to the opposite side of the boulevard.

Every effort has been made by the park commission authorities to keep the bath house in a spotless and sanitary condition. It is thoroughly cleaned every day and every bathing suit is laundered, steamed and sterilized by a local laundry as soon as it is taken off.

In fact, every precaution has been taken to make Lowell's municipal swimming pool a safe and pleasant place for men, women and children to bathe and in the month that it has been in operation this season, there has been abundant indication that the authorities are meeting with success in their efforts.

VERMONT FOLK GREET GOV. COOLIDGE

PLYMOUTH, Vt., July 12.—The countryfolk for miles around today were with Governor Percival W. Coolidge and other leading citizens of the state to greet Governor Calvin Coolidge of Massachusetts, republican nominee for vice president, and Mrs. Coolidge, at an open house reception, held at the family homestead where the governor is spending his vacation.

The guests numbered hundreds, and the roads to Plymouth were crowded with all manner of vehicles, from fashionable limousines to farmers' wagons. Many of those who greeted the governor knew him as a boy.

The occasion was an informal one in which the folk who left the field and tidied up a bit to greet the governor were made to feel as much at home as those accustomed to more formal affairs.

Governor Coolidge, saying that he was still resting, planned no lengthy remarks, and added that any talk he might make probably would be in the form of a word or two to his fellow natives of Vermont.

STRIKE CAUSES LOSS OF GIRL'S LIFE

CHICAGO, July 12.—A fourteen-year-old girl was killed and probably 50 persons were injured today in automobile accidents resulting from congestion caused by an unexpected strike of 133 street car electricians.

The girl was killed when a motor truck carrying 10 persons to work crashed into a telegraph pole.

Union officials said the strike would affect 2000 workers, but the company declared it could maintain partial service today through non-union employees and would be in complete operation tomorrow.

Operation of the elevated lines, which were not affected by the strike, prevented a complete tie-up of transportation in the early hours, when surface cars were running.

Union officials said the strikers were demanding increases in pay of about 33 per cent. The strikers also expressed dissatisfaction over working conditions and declared that non-union men had been employed by the company.

PREDICT REDUCTION IN PRICE OF COAL

NEW YORK, July 12.—A reduction in the price of bituminous coal was predicted today by members of the sub-committee of railroad officials and coal operators, meeting here to complete details of a plan to relieve the coal shortage in New York city, New England and the northwest.

By a scientific distribution of cars the committee hopes to provide a steady stream of coal to the affected districts. Under this plan, the coal committee members believe the coal speculators will find it impossible to exact the high prices that the acute shortage has made possible.

The car question alone is the stumbling block, it was said.

WILL ACQUIRE HUGE TIMBER LAND TRACT

BANGOR, Me., July 12.—A tract of 100,000 acres of timber lands on the upper St. John waters owned by the Eaton estate of Calais, will pass to the Alleghash Land Co., a corporation which was organized in this city today to take over an option on the holdings held by E. H. Draper, who recently took over an extensive tract of the Eaton timber lands on the St. Croix waters, and who is heavily interested in timberlands in this state and in New Brunswick. The capital stock of the Alleghash Co. is $500,000 and E. C. Ryder is the president.

MORE RECRUITS FOR NAVAL SERVICE

Brauer, 49 Pleasant street, Lawrence, enlisted as an apprentice seaman for the minority cruise, and Walter Detelle, 1163 Lakeview avenue, enlisted as an electrician, were forwarded to Boston this morning as recruits for the naval service.

As soon as Chief Joseph Crepeau of the local navy station receives permission from the local street commissioner for use of the sidewalk in front of the Central street office for the exhibition of a modern submarine torpedo, a huge torpedo will be shipped from Boston. This exhibition will be used as an attraction for naval recruiting.

Says:

If full page advertisements with glaring type announcing big mark downs—on paper—suit your taste you can find plenty these days on goods that were marked too high to begin with or on bargain counter trash that's mighty expensive at any price.

For about a month the papers have been crowded with big type announcements of Clothing Sales, each dealer trying to outdo the others, some selling goods at half price or less, others suffering tremendous losses, and a few would lead you to believe they were giving merchandise away.

We have been in the clothing business for twenty-seven years and have never yet been able to discover a method by which we could continue in business without making enough profit over the cost of goods to pay expenses—And we are yet to be convinced that it can be done—That's why some two months ago we inaugurated this great campaign to break high prices by selling Men's, Women's and Boys'

CLOTHES AT COST

PLUS EXPENSES

The result of this method of doing business is that, despite the noise of the merry battle of the would-be philanthropists we have enjoyed the largest spring business in our entire history and until further notice we will continue selling your clothes at cost, plus expenses, which brings the prices down to the lowest possible mark.

Here are the cost plus expenses for this week—

Men's Suits at cost plus expenses $49.50

Men's Suits at cost plus expenses $44.50

Men's Suits at cost plus expenses $38.50

Men's Suits at cost plus expenses $34.50

Men's Odd Summer Suits, some Shuman made $20

Men's Bates St. Shirts $2.75

Men's Shirts $1.95

Men's Shirts $1.79

Men's Summer Union Suits $1.69

Men's Cotton Stockings

Boys' Suits at cost plus expenses $24.50

Boys' Suits at cost plus expenses $19.50

Boys' Two-Pant Suits at cost plus expenses $15.50

Boys' Blue or Tan Overalls $1.65
